Agreement Reached on State Levy

Sponsors of Proposals in Controversy Agree on Plan for Quarterly Payments

Members on Guard

Leaders Are Taking Time in Passing War Measures

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—A compromise agreement, between Republican sponsors of two controversial proposals for quarterly payment of state personal income taxes cleared the way today for the GOP-controlled legislature's approval of the relief, effective immediately.

Assemblyman Maurice Whitney, Chairman of the Assembly Tax Committee, agreed to withdraw his bill to provide for immediate quarterly payments without advancing the fiscal year opening from July 1 to April 1.

Abbott Low Moffat, Republican Chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, contends the earlier fiscal year opening is necessary to compensate for a revenue loss the first year of quarterly payments, which he estimates at approximately $30,000,000.

Moffat, sponsor of a measure for quarterly payments and the earlier financial year effective in 1944, claimed Whitney's bill as drafted would absorb a state surplus upon which Governor Lehman's promise of a tax-reduction proposal has been based.

As a result of the agreement announced by Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, the legislature will simultaneously consider Moffat's proposal making quarterly payments permanent beginning in 1944 and two Whitney-authored measures calling for such payments on a temporary basis the next two years.

To effect the action at once, the Whitney bills would permit the State Comptroller to borrow and meet deficits anticipated from delaying one quarterly payment two weeks beyond present opening of the fiscal year.

Dates for Payments

The quarterly payments would be April 15, July 15, October 15 and January 15. One half the tax is now payable April 15, one quarter June 15 and one quarter September 15.

Meantime legislative leaders, on guard against any weakening of law enforcement during wartime, raised the "go slow" signal today on measures to prohibit court use of evidence obtained by illegal wire-tapping.

Similar bills were passed individually by the Senate and Assembly in the last legislative session but, because of an error committed in an adjournment rush, neither house took action on the same measure and no law was enacted.

Fearful of erecting a barrier against trapping spies and saboteurs, leaders of both parties this time cautioned lawmakers to consider the measures carefully.

While the electorate in 1938 approved a constitutional amendment banning wire-tapping without a court order, there is no statute to implement the provision.

Other legislative developments included:

A proposal for creation of an automobile transportation bureau to pool state-owned automobiles as a step in cooperation with Federal car rationing orders.

Introduction of measures to revise New York's motor vehicle safety responsibility law to reduce accident reports flooding administrative offices.

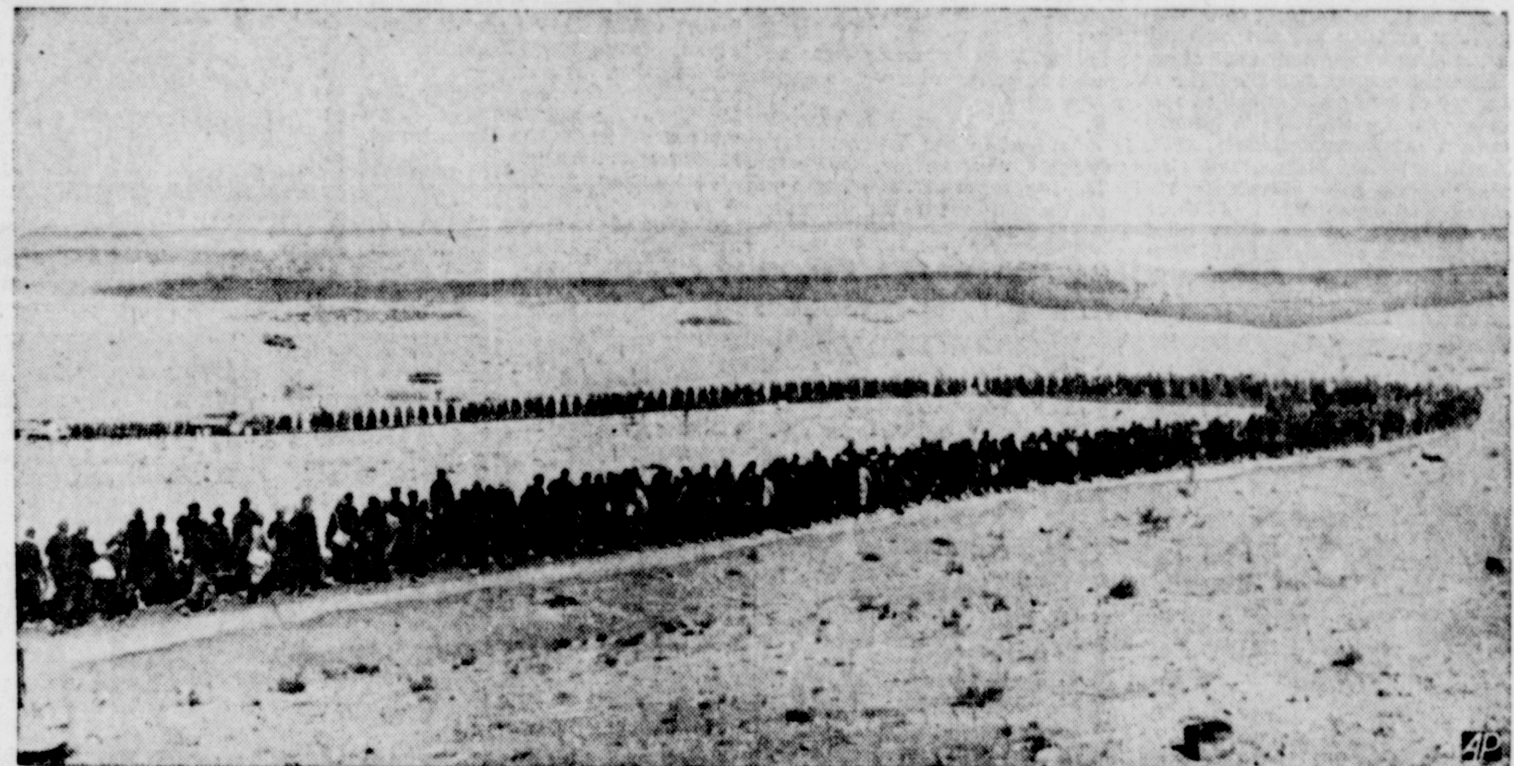

Submission of a Republican proposal to delay expenditure during the war of all but $4,000,000 of the $60,000,000 bond issue for highway construction, voted last November.

Bills to forbid wire-tapping without an ex parte court order were sponsored by two New York City Republicans, Senator Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., and Assemblyman MacNeil Mitchell, who introduced the similar measure last year.

Alarm Is Sent In

A passing pedestrian observing steam coming from the plant of the Ertel Manufacturing Company on Mill street at Hasbrouck avenue, believed the building was on fire and rang in an alarm from Box 2131 at Mill street and Hasbrouck avenue shortly after 8 o'clock Wednesday night. There was no fire.

German and Italian prisoners, ironically forming a 'V' as they plod along the North African sands, head across the Libyan desert toward the port of Tobruk—and imprisonment in an Allied camp. Wechsler Offers To Resign Office On Legal Board

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Herbert Wechsler, a former assistant attorney general of New York, has offered to resign as executive secretary of the Board of Legal Examiners as a result of mention of his membership of the National Board of the International Juridical Association described by Representative Starnes (D-Ala.) as "a Communist party auxiliary."

Wechsler's offer to surrender his $8,000-a-year government post, "if it is deemed to be desirable that I do so," was contained in a letter to Representative Woodrum (D-Va.), chairman of a house appropriations subcommittee, and published in the record of hearings before the committee made public today.

He gave Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone whom he served as secretary in 1932, as a character reference but added that he did not desire his qualifications to act as secretary of the board to be "identified with the merits of the board's program, or the wisdom of granting an appropriation for the continuance of its work."

The board was set up in the Civil Service Commission by Executive order last year to promote the development of a merit system for attorneys in the government service.

Wechsler lives at Pomona, Rockland county, N. Y.

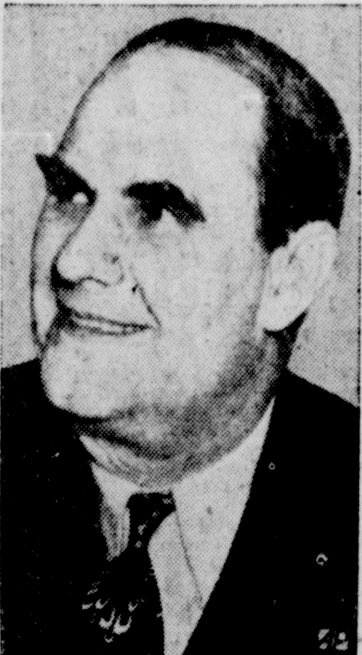

Published Record

The published record of testimony before the Appropriations Subcommittee disclosed Wechsler, in reply to questions by Starnes, said that in addition to his association with the National Board of the International Juridical Association, he was at one time a member of a legal advisory committee of the International Labor Defense, also described by Starnes as a Communist organization.

"I may say," Wechsler told the committee, "that during that time I had nothing whatever to do with the International Labor Defense."

George Forecasts Japanese Peace Move With Chinese

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Senator George (D-Ga.) forecast today that the Japanese would try to effect peace with China if they succeed in capturing Singapore and penetrating to Rangoon in Burma.

George, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was nearly as pessimistic about British prospects in Malaya as Chairman Connally (D-Texas), who told a press conference yesterday that he feared Singapore eventually would fall.

Connally said this would be a serious military blow to the united nations in the fight for control of the Far East and George added that such a disaster was almost sure to mean that the Japanese would throw their full strength against Burma in an effort to cut off the Burma Road, chief Chinese supply line.

190 Young Persons Are Given Jobs

Woodstock Work Center Says Experience Factor

A total of 190 young people have left the Woodstock N.Y.A. Resident Center for jobs in other parts of the state and nation according to a report given at a recent meeting of the Advisory Committee.

Of this number of jobs obtained by former workers at the Woodstock center 57 were directly related to the work experience they had received while enrolled at the center indicating that 30 per cent of those who had left owe their jobs to the Woodstock work experience program.

The report showed also that 28 of the young men had left for enlistment in the armed services. Only a few enrolled at the center left due to their inability to get the most out of the program or because their parents withdrew them.

The balance of the group which had left either received parttime or seasonal jobs or permanent jobs not related to the shop program at Woodstock.

Many of the young people, the list of placements shows, went to work in the factories of Connecticut at the General Electric Co., Schenectady, in aircraft and arms work and one was placed with the North American Aviation Co. at Los Angeles, Cal.

The report in part continues: "In the shops there had been turned out 301 different units in wood; 750 units in textiles; 805 units in metal, and 113 units in stone. All of the above were made for public agencies either federal or state, said agencies supplying the necessary materials."

"All of these were made for government or public agencies. Mr. Wallach also spoke of the importance of hanging on to the pre-war ideals for the Woodstock NYA as a craft center to be taken up at the termination of the present war emergency."

"Mr. Wallach said there had been a tremendous advance in health education (lack of funds due to cuts prevented the continuation of a great part of the NYA health program) and suggested."

Russell Dismisses Jury When Drive For Verdict Fails

Unable to agree, the jury which for eight days listened to testimony in the $100,000 malpractice action brought by Harry Castiglione against Dr. Douw S. Myers, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning was dismissed by Justice Russell after it had spent 14 hours in an effort to reach some conclusion.

After days of testimony the case was submitted to the jury at 11:20 o'clock Wednesday morning and from that time until 1 o'clock Thursday morning the jurors were endeavoring to come to a decision. After dismissal it was reported the jury stood 6 to 5 for a verdict with one juror unable to come to a decision. Before the final ballot was taken, however, it was stated that at one time during the deliberations the jury stood 9 o'clock for a verdict for plaintiff but the vote had gradually changed as time wore on.

Twice before making the final report the jury sought "further instructions" from Justice Russell. The jurors were taken out for lunch about 12:30 p. m. and on return had deliberated for a time when it was announced that additional instruction was desired. At 3 o'clock the jurors were brought to the court room and the foreman asked that certain testimony of Dr. Stella and Dr. Wolfe be read. It was also asked that a section from one of the books on treatment which had been offered in evidence be read. The jurors then returned to the jury room where they remained, except while out for dinner, until 11:25 when they again sought instructions. At this time the foreman said the jury apparently could not agree but after certain technical points were explained Justice Russell asked them to make one last effort to come to a decision. He pointed out that much time had been spent in the trial and every effort should be made to reach a decision.

An hour and a half later the jurors announced they could not agree and after that statement had been made to the court Justice Russell dismissed the eleven men and one woman.

Sinclair Says British Are Preparing Huge Offensive Against Continent

Set-Back Is Given

Axis Columns Strike 10 Miles Into Anglo Lines

(By The Associated Press)

Russian troops slashed at the rearguard of Adolf Hitler's retreating German armies seven miles west of Mzhaisk today, while in London Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair declared that the British army now was organizing "the greatest possible striking force for offensive operations on the European continent."

Sinclair gave no indication whether a British counter-invasion was imminent. London newspapers and other critics for weeks have been clamoring for action, and British officials have frequently mentioned the restiveness of the 2,000,000 army regulars and 2,000,000 Home Guards long held in readiness to combat any attack on the island kingdom itself.

On the North African front, British troops who had swept more than 300 miles across the Libyan desert in pursuit of Gen. Erwin Rommel's armies met their first setback in the two-month-old counter-offensive.

Cairo headquarters acknowledged that three strong Axis columns made a 10-mile "reconnaissance in force" into British positions yesterday below Mersa Brega, a coastal town on the Gulf of Sirte, about halfway between Agadabia and El Agheila.

Agadabia is 70 miles northeast of El Agheila.

"Our light forces, which had his retirement from Agadabia withdrawn, maintaining contact with the enemy throughout the day and inflicting casualties upon him," British headquarters said.

British Driven Back

The German high command's version asserted that Axis armored columns drove the British back in a surprise attack and declared that the British were fleeing toward Agadabia.

Premier Mussolini's high command said Axis planes supporting the land operations "repeatedly and intensively attacked retreating troops, concentrations of armored units, anti-aircraft batteries, depots and troop concentrations."

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters, contrasting with the gloomy terseness of recent communiqués, reported that the fuhrer's Russian attempts to break the encirclement of Sevastopol, Black Sea naval base, and that repeated Soviet attempts to break out of Leningrad had been "frustrated."

Russian dispatches from the southwestern front—a term which might refer either to the Crimea or the Ukraine—reported that Soviet cavalry and artillery had crushed a series of violent German counter-attacks.

A Red army bulletin said 1,400 Germans were killed in heavy fighting in the south, and the Leningrad radio reported 700 Nazis slain in action around the old-time Czars capital in the north.

The battle cry of the troops of Lieut. Gen. Leonid Gorovov, the conqueror of Mzhaisk, was: "The road to victory lies ahead." Russian artillery pounded the German rear guard. The long road to Smolensk was reported crowded with fleeing troops.

A heavy British aerial offensive against Axis bases in the Mediterranean was reported by the London air ministry—attacks apparently designed to circumvent a thrust against Malta or strengthening of German-Italian forces engaged in the second battle of Libya.

Wave after wave of Wellington bombers blasted at the Cantania airdrome of Sicily in a 10-hour raid Tuesday night and pilots said they started fires which were visible 40 miles away.

Death Benefit Claims

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—Death benefit claims from New York industrial accidents in 1941 totaled 1,279, smallest number in a decade, reversing last year's upward trend in 26 principal industrial states. The State Labor Department, which will check validity of claims and base awards on the extent of survivors' dependency, records 1,354 fatal mishaps for 1940.

Japs Might Try To Get Australia, Observers Report

Rabaul Flashes News That Flotilla of Eleven Japanese Ships Is Seen Off Watom Island; MacArthur Faces 200,000 Japanese

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

British Jungle Troops, seizing the initiative for the first time in the Malayan campaign, were reported smashing at Japan's main invasion armies in a full-scale counter offensive 70 miles north of Singapore today while reinforcements of 350-mile-an-hour hurricane fighters swung into action over Singapore itself.

The newly-arrived hurricanes, single seaters with the greatest fire-power punch of any plane of its type, are equipped either with 12 machine guns or four light cannon and machine guns.

Another major development in the flaming Pacific conflict apparently bore out fears that an invasion of Australia may be imminent.

A broadcast from Rabaul, oft-bombed capital of Australian-mandated New Britain, flashed word that a flotilla of eleven Japanese ships had been sighted off nearby Watom Island, and immediately after this report communications with Rabaul ceased.

Observers in Melbourne said it was presumed that military forces had already evacuated New Britain, which lies only 800 miles northeast of Australia, in anticipation of a Japanese landing.

The Japanese flotilla was sighted 30 to 40 miles off Watom Island, which is 15 miles northeast of Rabaul, half an hour before the Rabaul radio sent its last message at 4 p. m. (1 a. m., E. S. T.).

It was believed that the radio and telegraph stations had been destroyed by British forces before evacuation in line with a "scorched earth" policy.

"The Philippine battlefield, a war department bulletin said, had Japanese troops on Luzon Island—already estimated to number 200,000—were being reinforced and that the invaders were again heavily attacking Gen. Douglas MacArthur's fiery defenders.

The communiqué reported seaborne Japanese troops were being landed in Lingayen Gulf, 110 miles north of Japanese-held Manila, and in Subic Bay, near the approaches to Batan Peninsula.

As evidence of the toughness of Gen. MacArthur's little band, the entire Japanese 14th army and a number of other units were officially reported now operating on Luzon Island.

The Japanese are renewing their attacks all along Gen. MacArthur's line on the Batan Peninsula, the war department said.

"Particularly heavy fighting is in progress on the left and the center."

In Malaya, it seemed apparent that a crucial test in the struggle for Singapore was in progress.

Behind the lines, British fliers claimed a heavy toll of Japanese transport columns north of Port Bulong, destroying many vehicles and machine-gunning troops.

Singapore itself, under almost incessant aerial assault, grimly counted a toll of 304 killed and 725 wounded in yesterday's 100-plane Japanese attack—comparatively surpassing the worst raids on London at the height of the blitz.

A communiqué said 625 wounded were admitted to hospitals and 100 others treated at first-aid posts.

But the beleaguered island colony was cheered by the arrival of powerfully-gunned hurricane pursuit fighters, and when 30 Japanese warplanes roared over Singapore again today RAF fliers were credited with shooting down five bombers and damaging a fighter.

Coincidentally, a Chinese army spokesman reported that fear of attack by allied bombers had spurred 30,000 to 40,000 Japanese to leave parts of Japan for Shanghai and other centers along the lower Yangtze Valley.

In the Dutch East Indies, where Japan's far-flung invasion hordes are striking in heavy force, the Dutch announced they had completely destroyed the great oil wells and oil plants at Balikpapan, on the east coast of Dutch Borneo.

Balik Papan is about 175 miles below Tarakan Island, off the northeast coast of Borneo, where the Japanese gained their first foothold in the Indies.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Jan. 21.—The annual meeting of the Woodstock Mutual Fire Insurance Association was held in the offices of the company on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. There were 25 people present. Sixty-three proxies were filed. On motion of Mr. Perkins the proxies were accepted. Sherman Short, president, presided with L. V. Simpkins as secretary. Reports of the president, secretary and treasurer were read and approved. The meeting then proceeded to the election of three directors. Directors elected were: L. V. Simpkins for three years; Edward Myers for two years; and Kenneth Clark for one year. Birge Simmonds moved the acceptance and approval of all of the various activities and transactions of the directors and executive committees during the past year. George Riskey spoke briefly on the recollections of the company from years gone by when meetings were held in the basement of the Reformed Church. The Rev. Harvey I. Todd spoke of the relation of the insurance company to Civilian Defense and brought out a number of questions, upon which there was an informal discussion. It was moved that a small bouquet of flowers be sent to Mr. Meribow, who is at present ill in the Benedictine Hospital. Also it was suggested that a committee act, in an observance of the 50th anniversary of the company next year. On the committee are Mr. St. John and Judge Shufeldt.

Woodstock will cooperate with Kingston and in fact all of Ulster county in the observance of Civilian Defense when it is found necessary to have them. Arrangements to this effect have already been made with the heads of Civilian Defense officials here. The details of such activities, while thoroughly in hand are not to be made public. Activities of the Civilian Defense here, during the past week comprise the finishing of census on the housing project. Also the conservation project, which up to the present time has arranged with W. S. Elwyn for the old sheds, formerly those of the Reformed Church, where it is planned there will be four bins constructed. These will be arranged as a depository for newspapers, scrap metal, old rubber and rags. It is planned to turn these over to junk men, who will see that they finally get into the hands of the government. Tentative arrangements have been made to look after this material and prevent theft, but this will be left to the Boy Scouts. The committee in charge of this project is the Rev. H. I. Todd, L. V. Simpkins and Captain Moncre. Larry Goetz is also associated with the committee. The present registration for Civilian Defense is 409. On January 27 the captains of the Red Cross will meet at Twin Gables, to report on the Red Cross war effort. The amount at present reported is $1,400. The home nursing course was started at the Legion rooms Monday. Twenty-nine people were present. The hours will be from 1 to 3 p. m.

Arrangements are being made for a Valentine Day Ball to be given at Town Hall on February 14. The arrangements are under the supervision of Mrs. Marion Bullard. At present a program is being made by Mica and Maud Petersham. This program will be carried out in the theme of the "gay nineties." To enlarge the receipts, the program, a unique work of art, will be on sale. The music for the occasion will be under the personal supervision of Vladimir Padwa, well known pianist. Contributions of various kinds will be accepted. A painting for that purpose painted by Florence Ballin Cramer is now on view at Dolores Beauty Shop. A coffee urn may be seen at the George C. Layman store. A variety of unique candles are also to be seen at the Woodstock 5 and 10 cent store. A detailed list of the committees in charge of various departments of the celebration will be published later.

A number of business places in Woodstock were closed Tuesday afternoon out of respect for Jesse were held at the undertaker parlors of Victor N. Lasher at that hour.

Emphasize Dairy Cattle Breeding

Present Need, Post-War Cry for Replacements

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 22.—County farm bureaus in New York state are emphasizing dairy cattle breeding because efficient-producing cows are needed now and in the post-war period, and because of the prospective need of cattle for replacements in war-torn countries, says Fred B. Morris, assistant state county agent leader.

The emphasis in countries is to increase the number of bull associations and to increase enrollment in artificial breeding associations. At the present time, Mr. Morris points out, county farm bureaus have organized 36 bull associations with a membership of 144 herds, of four breeds: Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey, and Ayrshire. The associations consist of three to ten members, all of whom have herd improvement programs and use either or proved sires from selected herds and cow families that have proved their ability to transmit high production; or they are now proving young sires of their own selection.

Steuben county has the largest number of bull associations of any county in the state. It is an important cattle-replacement area, according to Mr. Morris. The Delaware county farm bureau has reported the organization of three bull rings within one dairy herd improvement association at Margaretville, with the possibility of a fourth soon.

Huge Supply Measure Is Sent to House to Give Agencies Funds for Year

through his father as guardian sought to recover damages for alleged malpractice. He asked $100,000 in his complaint, charging that complications which set in after a broken arm had been due to the treatment given. The boy lost the tips of his fingers on the left hand through gangrene and his arm motion is restricted. The plaintiff claimed that the damage was due to the treatment. The defendant claimed that he had told the parents the fracture was a serious one and the boy should remain at the hospital but when the boy objected he was then taken home. Dr. Myers contended, as did other experts, that when the bone was fractured it injured an artery and caused a clot to form which later shut off the flow of blood to the hand and caused gangrene to set up. Experts testified that in such cases the injured member should be carefully watched and that once the clot formed there was little to do about it.

John Bonomi appeared for the plaintiff and Michael Hayes and N. LeVan Haver appeared for the defendant.

Red Cross War Fund

A substantial contribution toward the $45,000 American Red Cross War Fund to be raised by the Ulster County committee will help keep the fighting men, healthy, happy and efficient.

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—A $2,096,138,875 supply bill for independent agencies of the government in the next fiscal year carrying $984,410,800 for the shipbuilding program of the Maritime Commission went to the House today from its appropriations committee.

The total was about $5,000,000 less than President Roosevelt's budget recommendations and $1,237,899,349 under comparable appropriations for this fiscal year. But the committee said the subsequent supplemental funds probably would offset that apparent reduction.

The committee reported that on January 1, the Maritime Commission had contracted for construction of 968 vessels and had made other awards for which contracts had not actually been let. Chairman Land of the commission told the committee December 9 that 999 ships had been contracted for and contracts would be let for 423 more before June 30.

"Up to December 31, 1941," the committee said, "keels had been laid for 308 ships and which 178 had been launched and 129 delivered in conjunction with the armed forces of the United States or in foreign trade routes."

Other major appropriations were: Tennessee Valley Authority, $136,100,000; Veterans administration, $110,909,088; executive office of the President, $5,135,325; emergency funds of the President, $25,000,000; Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund, $105,258,000; and public roads administration, $88,500,000.

The committee also approved $8,993,328 for the national advisory committee for aeronautics, an increase over the current fiscal year of $2,797,863, mostly for continued construction at the Moffett Field, Calif., laboratory and aircraft engine research at Cleveland, O.

For the Selective Service system, the committee allocated $34,745,000, an increase of $1,245,000 resulting from the new graduated recruitment program.

Wechsler Offers To Resign Office On Legal Board

never attended any meetings, was not a member; I made no contribution, either financial or otherwise, other than to agree to serve in the event I was requested to give advice on straight questions of law."

Starnes, a member of the Dies Committee on Un-American Activities, said he wanted to "make this statement for the record."

"That Mr. Browder (Earl Browder, former Communist candidate for president) and many members—I mean charter members—of the Communist party have stated that the International Labor Defense is the legal arm of the Communist party of the United States; that the International Juridical Association, of which the gentleman says he is a member of the National Board, has been and is a straight Communist party auxiliary organization."

Wechsler said he agreed "with what has been said about the International Labor Defense, although I confess the revelation came somewhat after my participation in it, which was one of the reasons why I hastened to get out of it and felt that my name was being used for improper purposes."

Agrees to Serve

The witness said he agreed to serve on the Board of the International Juridical Association in order to promote a bulletin published by the association dealing with labor legislation.

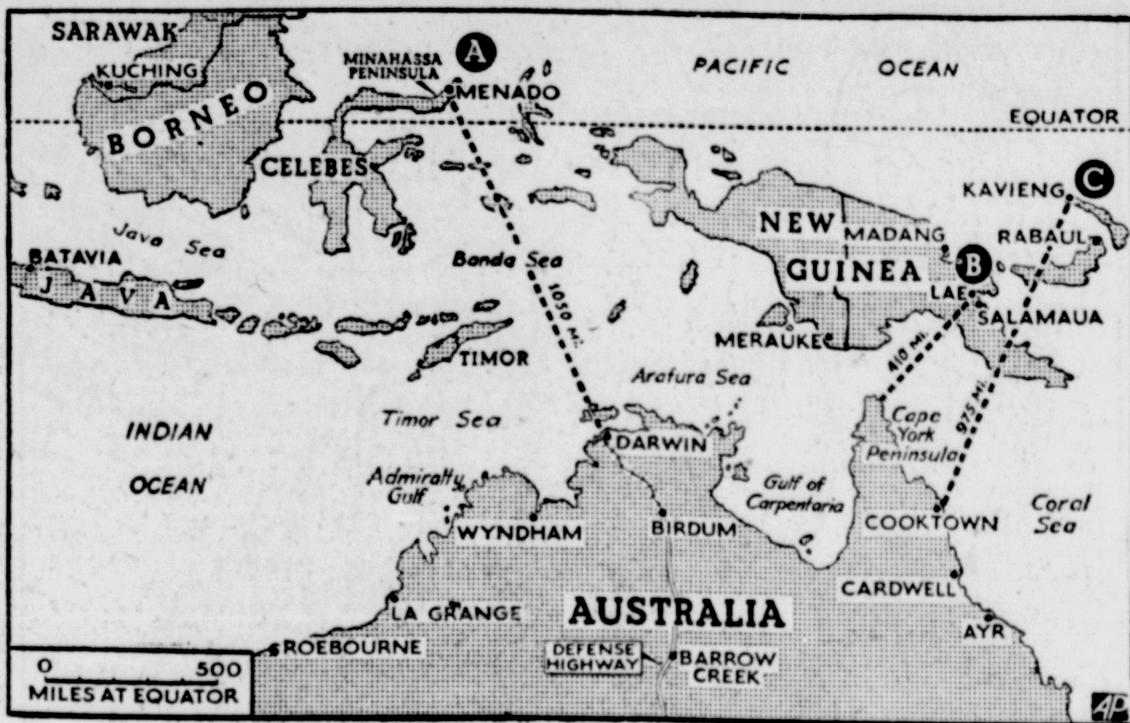

"I have never written anything for this bulletin and, at the time it began—and I may say it was functioning before I became a member of this board—I felt it was something that deserved the attention of the board and particularly of the labor bar," he said. "I am not unaware of the issue involved in service on that board. It has been for me a difficult problem, but I have felt that the bulletin served a useful purpose and I have not desired to detract from the usefulness of the bulletin."

In his letter to Woodrum, Wechsler said he was an associate professor at the Columbia Law School in New York and served as legal adviser to Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) at the New York State Constitutional Convention in 1938. At the request of Attorney General Biddle, he said, he obtained an extension of his leave from Columbia University last year to assume his present post as executive secretary of the Board of Legal Examiners.

Area Gets $13,867.75
Albany, Jan. 22—Unemployment insurance benefits of $4,262,306 in 344,439 individual checks were distributed to unemployed men and women in New York state during December, 1941, according to a report issued today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. This total is 12 per cent higher than November's but 25 per cent less than that of December, 1940. December payments for the Kingston employment office amounted to $13,867.75 for the 1941-1942 benefit year, in the form of 1,182 separate checks. The average benefit payments for a single week of unemployment in the Kingston area was $11.48 for the month.

WHY AUSTRALIA FEARS AIR ATTACKS

Dotted lines show the possible air routes to northern Australia from islands where mass Japanese air attacks caused Australian Prime Minister Curtin to warn of impending peril to his nation, from potential Japanese airfields on Minahasa Peninsula (A), from the east New Guinea coast (B) where Nippon bombers sprayed Madang, Salamaua and Lae, and from Kavieng (C) and nearby Rabaul.

hold of the important oil wells," it was announced.

Drive Is Opened

Dispatches from the front said British artillery opened the Malayan counter-offensive yesterday with a heavy curtain of fire. Two waves of RAF fighters then swept over the area, machine-gunning Japanese patrols and were immediately followed by charging infantrymen.

Besides attempting to crush the Japanese in a direct frontal attack, the Empire troops also hoped to relieve the survivors of an Indian and two Australian battalions cut off for three days south of the Muar river.

An Associated Press correspondent with the British forces said the decision to attack, reached at a war council of generals under the shade of a rubber tree, coincided with information that the Japanese were planning to strike at the British west flank in northern Johore state.

In broad outline, the British strategy was to drive north against the main Japanese armies swarming down the Malay peninsula, temporarily ignoring smaller Japanese infiltration forces which had landed in the British rear, farther down on the west coast.

Rangoon Is Attacked

Rangoon, capital of invasion-menaced Burma, drew the attention of a single Japanese plane. British anti-aircraft batteries threw up a heavy fire. The Japanese circled the city at less than 1,000 feet and machine-gunned a road.

Aground, British, Burmese and Chinese troops fought Japanese and Thai troops near Kawkaik, 20 miles west of the Burma-Thailand frontier and 45 miles east of Moulmein. About 100 miles west of Moulmein, across the Gulf to Martaban, lies Rangoon.

Widening of the war zone in the south Pacific was forecast in Melbourne in the wake of mass air attacks on allied islands off the Australian mainland. Rabaul, New Britain, was raided again. Arthur Drakeford, Australian air minister, declared that the Japanese, backed by one or more aircraft carriers, were on the point of landing in New Guinea—perhaps today. The southern shore of New Guinea lies only about 100 miles north of Australia's Cape York.

A break in relations of all the 21 American republics with Axis nations was in prospect at the Pan American conference in Rio de Janeiro.

This was made possible through a four-point compromise agreement drawn up by Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru and the United States which provided that the various governments were to pass upon the accord and eliminated a provision for a simultaneous cutting of economic ties with the Axis. Argentina and Chile had held out against the original proposals.

With the U. S. Navy hunting submarines which have claimed six victims off the Atlantic coast in a week, it was pointed out in Washington that protecting the sea lanes of the entire hemisphere would be an added responsibility. The Latin American nations, however, could provide five battle-closure in 1936 for $30,000, although the value was $203,647. He believes John Washburn was the purchaser. John then turned over the assets to a new corporation, Washburn Brick Corp., of which he is president, according to the affidavit.

Since 1932 the corporation has lost over $295,000 and will lose the remaining equity unless a receiver is appointed declared the plaintiff.

Judge Cox, in denying the motion, said: "I find nothing in the affidavits submitted on this motion to warrant the appointment of a receiver. The court is in no position to control the judgment of the directors on the question of the continuance of the business and the great majority of the stockholders appear to be satisfied with the management. I do not think that the charges of bad faith have in any way been substantiated."

Bonita Gets Divorce

Reno, Jan. 22 (AP)—The former Bonita Edwards hobbled into court on crutches yesterday and emerged with a divorce from

Tommy Manville. The 22-year-old showgirl, wife No. 5 of the 47-year-old asbestos fortune heir, fractured an ankle last month while skiing. Married at Ridge-

YOUR PART

A handful of Marines for days held Wake Island against impossible odds. They didn't have a chance, and they knew they didn't have a chance. But there was a thing called tradition to live up to. They did their part.

Captain Colin P. Kelly, Jr., didn't have a chance either, and he knew it. But there was a job to be done—he, too, played his part.

In the Philippines, in Hawaii, in China, on the high seas, American fighting men are doing their part, writing into the record new chapters in heroism and sacrifice.

What can you do?

The American Red Cross has an answer. When Japanese bombs fell on Pearl Harbor and Manila, the Red Cross was ready and in action without delay. You've seen the pictures—pictures of terrified little children and frantic mothers, the wounded and dead, innocent victims of warfare which no longer recognizes civilians as non-combatants.

In the pictures you saw other people, men and women with Red Crosses on their arms, who were on the job scarcely before the bombers were out of sight.

Those Red Cross men and women had but one thought in mind . . . mercy. They were doing their part. They were relieving suffering where that relief was most needed—at the scene.

Under their ministrations thousands of human beings, some of them your former neighbors—perhaps the man and his wife and the cute little girl who sailed off to Manila a year ago—are being helped.

In Army camps and defense outposts, naval stations, airdromes, any spot where a U. S. man is standing guard over the future of America, there the Red Cross flag waves. Those men appreciate the Red Cross. To them it is a breath of home and the sympathetic help they associate with home.

So, you want to know how you can help? Give to the American Red Cross War Fund!

It takes money to help in wartime. The American Red Cross needs that money, and there is no time to waste. The War Fund must be raised; not next year, not next month, but NOW.

All of you can give. You can give your money just as others are giving their life blood. By so doing you take up your station with the Red Cross on the front lines of mercy. The goal won't be reached until you have done your part.

PLAY BALL

Baseball, the President says, should go on even in war time. And why not? They play ball in the army when they can; all drill and no play makes men stale. So with civilians. It is good for anybody to play ball and good to see ball games. It brings us back to normal and gives us a lift of spirit. It breeds unity and gives the common touch. A President and a newsboy at a ball game are equal. It is the game which best expresses the American spirit.

The only reasonable lament about this kind of sport is that so few people, relatively, still play ball themselves. City people especially need such sport to toughen them and keep them fit, body and soul.

As for the latter, there is a sort of spiritual release in a sport that welds a crowd of people together into one big, howling, harmonious unit. And there is something very deep and strong in the shout that goes up when our side makes a home run. A ball game, too, is like a military campaign.

WEATHER TROUBLE

We never really appreciated the Weather Bureau until it began holding out on us. The federal experts have grown so stingy about it that we're reduced more and more to doing our own guessing. And it isn't working well at all, because we've mostly forgotten our weather lore.

It's another sad example of the loss of private initiative and the helplessness that comes, in any phase of our national life, from excessive dependence on government. This should be a lesson to us. And if we learn the lesson, we'll go humbly to grandpa and ask him to explain, in words of one syllable, just how we can tell whether it's going to be hot or cold or wet or dry, and how soon the next blow will come, and how long it will last, and so on. A lot of old-timers, sadly neglected in these too-scientific times, will be proud to oblige. They can even tell how to read the weather-glass.

As for the official reticence referred to, it's probably all right, but we don't understand it very well. Presumably it's to foil Hitler and Togo. Are they really so noisy that they're checking up every morning on our local weather? If they are, that's another reason for licking them. Our weather is our own business.

BLACKOUT LIGHTING

A curious fact about illumination is given out by the engineers of the War Department. Deep red lights are found more satisfactory than blue lights under blackout conditions. Such a red is less visible from the air than blue, gives better illumination on the ground and helps in adapting the eyes to near or total darkness.

Nevertheless it is hard to adapt this discovery to practical use, because red lights have generally been used for danger signs rather than helpful illumination. For adaptation to blackouts it would be necessary to differentiate very clearly the danger shades of red from the safety shades. Perhaps that can be done, but it will require training.

"Fight Infantile Paralysis," is a slogan which is employed in the annual appeal for funds to sustain the great work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. In the past three years this dread disease has entered more than 26,000 American homes. Each dime and each dollar contributed will raise stronger bulwarks against its spread into our military camps, cantonments and our homes.

A nation's internal behavior, as Anthony Eden observes, is nobody else's business; it's the international behavior that matters with the neighbors.

The East Indies have certainly got their Dutch up.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

LIVER AND GALL BLADDER

Physicians and surgeons doing both laboratory and clinical (practical) work on diseases of the digestive system tell us that the liver and gall bladder are responsible for most of the symptoms—bloating, gas pressure, nausea—rather than the stomach and intestines. That these symptoms are due to a great extent to sluggishness or slow action of liver and gall bladder is proven by the fact that when extra bile is given by mouth, the action of liver and gall bladder is increased and the symptoms are relieved in full or in part.

What is the best way to stimulate activity of the liver and gall bladder?

When man was created he was given a special column to protect the precious spinal cord (nerves) which control all the actions of the body. Also he was given a solid bony framework of ribs to protect those equally vital organs—the heart and lungs—so that he can withstand heavy blows upon the chest.

On the other hand, the liver, stomach, and intestines were left free of any bony protection because man was meant to bend himself to acquire strength of body and gather food necessary to maintain life. By this bending of the body across the abdomen, the liver is squeezed so that more bile flow and the gall bladder empties more often and completely. This means that more bile will flow down the liver and gall bladder into the small intestine. It is this bile that helps to break up and digest fats, kills harmful organisms in the intestine and stimulates action of the intestine so that wastes do not remain too long in the lower bowel.

So precious is bile that when it has done its work in the small intestine, most of it goes directly back to the liver to be used over again. It has been well said that the liver is "king of the organs" because, in addition to this manufacture of bile, it stores sugar for future use and furnishes the blood with needed elements.

If our occupation does not call on us to bend the body, we should stimulate liver and gall bladder action by bending exercises or games that cause the body to bend, such as bowling, curling, golf or others.

For those who can take no exercise, the gall bladder can be emptied by eating one or two egg yolks or a piece of butter every day.

Constipation

It has been said that half the population suffer from constipation. Send today for Dr. Barton's new booklet entitled "Constipation" (No. 114). There are two distinct types of constipation and what helps one type is harmful for the other. "KEEP 'EM ROLLING"—And Restore Hope and Health By Bressler

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Pros and cons concerning the success of the Civilian Defense Program under Director LaGuardia have kept the air circulating on whether it's a success.

The woods are full of opinions on whether it's a success. The capital, however, often mistakes a political sideshow for the main attraction. The rumors of LaGuardia's alleged arguments with the President's wife, congressional potshots at the Little Flower and the attendant cracks and counter-cracks have kept Washington thrilled.

That's unimportant. Washington is only one town. This civilian defense program, in this time of war for existence, admittedly should be fully organized and in full blast all over the country.

There's one certain way to find out. Check the home town newspapers of America. They mirror completely the activities of the people in each town. If civilian defense in Podunk is engrossing the best efforts of the people, you can bet your shirt that the Podunk Clarion is full of the doings of its people in behalf of civilian defense.

To get the real lowdown on this civilian defense business, its success or failure, I grabbed an armful of papers that came into my office from all over the country.

The verdict of America's representative newspapers seems to indicate the success of the civilian defense program is spotty. It's a question of geography in some places, a question of failure to "sell" the program to the people in others.

Out on the Pacific Coast, where ships have been sunk in sight of shore and hostile planes have flown over U. S. soil, there's no fooling about civilian defense. It's hot stuff in daily newspapers there. Editors know what their communities want, and those communities which feel the breath of war on their necks out there want columns of dope on how to protect their homes in wartime. The papers are full of it. It's clicking.

In Portland, Ore., they're fully staffed and really working. The people oversubscribed an $18,000 voluntary contribution budget to implement the program. Seattle papers are full of neighborhood defense meeting announcements.

Switch across the country, and you find industrial Baltimore a prime target and loaded to the city limits with defense contracts, brushing off civilian defense. Cartoonists suggest the governor and the mayor of Baltimore—his opponent in the last election—are making it a political tug-of-war. Siren tests were a flop. They couldn't recruit within thousands of their required volunteer staff. The Midwest is pretty generally lukewarm. Papers in Minnesota and Indiana reported test blackouts were "planned," organization meetings were "scheduled." This is a month after Pearl Harbor, remember.

Editorials in the Midwest were chiefly concerned with what the war would cost the people in comforts, what the budget meant in higher taxes. A Michigan paper carried its only civilian defense item on the society page. You get the idea some clubwomen think it's an idea that will bear looking into.

Galveston, on the Gulf Coast, really got into harness. Up in Alaska, the papers show the people are taking it seriously. There are isolated instances even in the most complacent areas where civic authorities have kicked the program into high gear, but there all too few.

There's evidence the OGD general staff hasn't sold the people in the behind-schedule areas. The Red Cross was staging its war drive at the same time I checked the papers. Even in localities where civilian defense was completely absent from local news, the Red Cross was getting space because its people were doing a news-worthy job.

That indicates people in areas remote from war are willing to hit the ball for the war effort, and that something has failed or else they'd be doing the same job for civilian defense.

It seems there's nothing like the proximity of a bombing to stir activity.

American People Are Spending Good Deal of Cash to Educate Administration in Rules of Industrial Management

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 22—It takes a long time to educate a politically minded administration in the simple rules of industrial management. And it costs the American people a good deal of money besides.

The announcement of the new setup whereby the war production board takes over the Office of Production Management, familiarly known as OPM, would be received with greater enthusiasm if it were not for the fact that the decision to delegate to one man rather than a committee the job of overseeing the vast powers is enveloped in the same sort of vague assurances that were given when the OPM was established.

Donald Nelson, the new production chief, has reshuffled the agencies and bureaus of OPM, kept certain important personnel and functions. The only major change is that the firm of Knudsen and Hillman, which President Roosevelt told the press on January 7, 1941, was just like a law firm and would function just like a partnership, has been suddenly dissolved.

Mr. Knudsen has been given three stars and the uniform of a lieutenant general and Mr. Hillman has been demoted from OPM to post as co-chairman of the new production chief.

Re-reading the news dispatches of just about a year ago, one finds that Mr. Roosevelt read to the correspondents an executive order which he said gave all the authority that could be desired to the position of production management function effectively. He outlined exactly how production and purchases and priorities would be interrelated. He was asked if Mr. Hillman and Mr. Knudsen were equals and how there could be effectiveness if responsibility were divided and neither one nor the other was boss. Mr. Roosevelt insisted it was a contingency that wasn't to be expected to arise and he continued with his analogy of a law firm.

Going back further to information given the press shortly before the above, namely on December 20, 1940, Mr. Roosevelt said that the elements of production and labor and purchasing could not be combined in the same person and that the persons who talk about responsibility in one man prove their ignorance.

Now Mr. Roosevelt has never had any experience himself in industrial management but, like a good many persons who happen to lack that kind of experience, he thinks it is something he can pick up as he goes along. He learns fast and doubtless if he were to be given the years of training needed to make a good production man himself, he would master it. He doesn't happen to know production and he has never been willing to grant that production men should occupy important posts in his entourage.

This, however, would seem to be contradicted by the wonderful praise given Mr. Knudsen when he was eased out of OPM. The fact is Mr. Knudsen is an excellent production man but a poor politician. He never had a chance. From the start he was given someone to watch over him with co-equal authority. Sidney Hillman quite naturally believed in the labor viewpoint. He is a labor union executive. But the President didn't let Mr. Knudsen have anything to say over labor matters or broad economic policies, and yet the House Naval Affairs Committee reports this week that strikes were the greatest single cause of delay to the defense program in 1941.

Only a fortnight ago, Mr. Knudsen ventured to say that the auto industry could not accept the C. I. O. plan to usurp the management further and that machine tools production could not be converted into tools that could be used for airplanes.

From the moment Mr. Knudsen balked labor his ouster was a foregone conclusion. The New Deal spokesmen began sniping at Mr. Knudsen because he didn't agree with the politicians and of course, he is no politician himself.

Mr. Nelson has much more political sense. He is one of the few business men in the setup who seems to be liked by the New Dealers, already there is talk in New Deal quarters of how there ought to be a labor ministry separate from Mr. Nelson's supervision. As a matter of fact there happens to be a cabinet post known as Secretary of Labor but this is not occupied by anyone who has been influential in the labor movement.

The reason why efficient men are driven out of Washington is because they are not politically minded. And the reason why it takes several executive orders and a continued reshuffling of personnel and agencies to get some sort of central responsibility is that Mr. Roosevelt constantly compromises and tries to keep from offending his New Deal supporters or those who have been in his official family. His loyalty to friends is unmistakable and commendable but it is an expensive luxury and the American people have had to pay the bill in time lost during the most critical period in the nation's history. U. S. Card Player Survey

Reveals Popular Games

There is ample evidence to show that Uncle Sam is the best card player in the world today and sits down more often than anybody else to enjoy an evening at the card table.

Not long ago the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers decided to find out just how much of a card player Uncle Sam is. They sent a corps of fact finders to 24 cities—big ones, medium-sized ones and small ones. These investigators rang doorbells of thousands of homes—mansions, prosperous homes, just ordinary dwellings and "dumps."

They asked people in these houses if they played cards. And if they did, what their favorite games are. Among other things these wandering statisticians discovered that 83 per cent of American families play cards—77 different and distinct games ranging all the way from Auction Bridge to Old Maid.

Argentinian Raises New Objection to Resolution; Unanimity Is Possible

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Jan. 22 (AP)—A member of Argentina's delegation to the Pan American Conference raised an 11th hour objection today to the turn of an important phrase in the draft resolution for unanimous American break of relations with the Axis—a point which cast a shadow on previously indicated unanimity.

The Argentine foreign minister and head of that country's delegation, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, meanwhile, said he approved the idea of breaking off relations "in principle" but adding that the delegation was awaiting final word from Buenos Aires.

A member of the delegation said his group would seek two modifications in the text of the agreement this afternoon.

The first change would be to drop the word "collective" at the end of Article Four to make the resolution say that consultation be held before any resumption of Axis relations thus to establish that the decision is merely "unanimous" and not "collective." Other conferees are expected to agree to this.

But the other objection, a proposal to change the wording of key Article Three, was expected to produce a fight.

As Article Three stands it would have the American republics declare that they "cannot continue diplomatic relations with Japan, Germany and Italy x x x."

Would Change Text

The Argentines proposed to change the Spanish text on "cannot continue"—"no podran continuar"—to "podrian no continuar," which, freely translated means, "perhaps will not be able."

Nevertheless, fundamentally an agreement among five nations, including reluctant Argentina and Chile, on the much-debated proposal for a concerted diplomatic break with the Axis opened the way today to a unanimous stand by the 21 American republics against Germany, Italy and Japan.

Participating with Argentina and Chile in working out a four-point compromise resolution were the United States, Brazil and Peru. The action drew favorable comment in conference circles and little difficulty was anticipated in obtaining formal approval from the remaining 16 nations represented in the conference of foreign ministers of Pan American republics.

The conference committee on economic cooperation, meanwhile, began work on its agenda, topped by separate proposals for American nations to end all financial, commercial and economic dealings with the Axis.

Among recommendations being this committee were proposals for freezing funds of Axis nations and business throughout the Americas and establishing blacklists of individuals and businesses linked with the Axis.

The committee also is considering a substitute for the original proposal to establish an all-American general staff. Instead it was suggested that a defense committee be formed—thus avoiding the impression of purely military purposes—with each nation naming one representative. The committee would operate at Washington.

Mexico, Colombia and Venezuela introduced last Friday the original resolution calling for a rupture of relations with the Axis, a measure against which Argentina and Chile balked.

The agreement, as rewritten from that resolution, did not stipulate that the break must be immediate and eliminated the original provision for a simultaneous cutting of economic ties with the Axis.

It stated in a carefully-worded section that the constituted powers of the governments signing the resolution, indicating that the Argentine Congress would have to pass on it for that nation. The Argentine delegation accepted the compromise resolution without reservation.

However, the Chilean delegate, Foreign Minister Juan Bautista Rossetti, who has insisted that Chile's special geographical situation affected her position, specifically stated that the agreement would have to be put before the Chilean Congress.

(The next regular session of the Argentine Congress begins May 1. Acting President Ramon S. Castillo thus far has refused to call a special session.)

The meeting at which the five nations thrashed out their problem was at the office of Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha, of Brazil. Besides Aranha and Rossetti, those present were U. S. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, Argentine Foreign Minister Dr. Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, and Peruvian Foreign Minister Alfredo Sofo Muro.

U. S. Might Ration Use of Electricity, Officials Report

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Congress received from government power officials today a blunt warning that the nation faces a rationing of electricity—possibly this year—that may even dim private homes to conserve power for the defense program.

That possibility was voiced by Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, and G. O. Wessener, acting power manager for the Tennessee Valley Authority, in testimony during House appropriations committee hearings on the independent offices supply bill approved today.

The rationing of electricity for homes, offices, night clubs and other civilian purposes, Olds told the committee, "is going to be necessary and is going to be done," and a survey to determine the power supply of the various areas is being made "to determine just what loads can be cut off without materially interfering with the normal life of the community."

Olds said he believed the emergency would call for power rationing in many regions "by the end of this year."

While it is hoped and planned, he added, that curtailment can be effected "without serious disruption of the normal life of the people," it may mean "a great deal more than simply the elimination of neon signs, ornamental street lighting, the use of the radio in homes, or other essentially luxury uses."

The more serious shortages of power naturally will occur in the heaviest defense production areas, Olds explained, and the population of those areas may face a serious reduction of their normal activities requiring the use of electricity.

Britain Coast Mended

Britain is mending her coasts although not many workers remain for the work. One plan much used on the east coast is to build hedges of firebricks, strongly fashioned together with barbed wire. These run down the beach at different angles and catch the washed sand and shingle which accumulate in masses, and so forms protection for the shore behind. It is reported in Swansea, Wales, that Amroth, a village on the Welsh coast, is being washed away by the sea.

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Rails led the stock market on an early recovery sprint today but the lack of a real follow-through brought considerable irregularity in the later proceedings.

Gains running to a point or so were reduced or erased in many cases near the final hour. Dealings also slackened appreciably after mid-day and transfers for the full session were at the rate of approximately 500,000 shares.

Opening stimulation for the transportation group was attributed mainly to action of the Interstate Commerce committee in granting the roads a 10 per cent fare increase.

Tax fears persisted as handicaps for sentiment, brokers said, and no inspiration was found in battle bullets from Malaya and the Philippines or the continuance of enemy submarine attacks off the Atlantic coast.

Railway bonds generally moved forward. Commodities were mixed, although cotton futures hit a new 12-year peak.

Stocks doing moderately well included Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio, Bethlehem Steel, Greyhound Corp., Phillips Petroleum and Phelps Dodge.

In arrears at times were American Telephone, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, United Aircraft, Union Carbide, International Harvester, U. S. Gypsum and Standard Oil (N. J.).

Hod Carrier Union Election Is Set Down for February

The long drawn out and hotly contested action by which members of Local No. 17, International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers Union, sought to compel the holding of an election appears to have been brought to a head with the scheduled holding of an election on Sunday, February 1. Yesterday the parties got together and agreed upon the date.

After the courts had decided an election must be held a last minute action to delay the election was started by a group of 17 "rank and file" members who asked the Appellate Division to delay the election on the grounds that nomination proceedings had been irregular. Yesterday however the attorneys agreed on the date and the court action was withdrawn.

This will be the first election of officers since 1937 for the union whose members supply the demand for laborers on the big New York City water works project on the upper Rondout and Delaware rivers. The election, which will be conducted by use of machines, will be a secret election with Frederick W. Dusing, one of the complainants, opposing Samuel Nuzzo. Voting will take place in Kingston at Byrne Hall at 635 Broadway, in Kerhonkson at a house on Main street and in Newburgh at 242 Broadway. The election will be conducted between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. The candidates to be voted are those nominated on December 28.

The action was hotly contested in local courts and in the Appellate Division with an order finally being made that an election be held.

Frederick W. Dusing and other members of the union sought to have an accounting of the Union funds which was claimed should be a considerable amount since the membership is large, and also asked for an election. As the case moved forward through the courts an order was made restraining the Union from taking action against the plaintiffs and requiring that nothing be done to deprive them of work during the pendency of the action.

Some time ago an order was made directing the holding of an election. Then a delay was sought on the grounds that names placed in nomination last December had been named in an "irregular" manner. Wednesday at Albany however the matter was straightened out when it was stipulated that the election should go on Sunday as scheduled and the action to delay the election was withdrawn.

Many Jobs Filled

Albany, Jan. 22—The New York State Employment Service filled a total of 48,670 jobs during December, it was announced today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. Of these, 12,867 were in manufacturing, 12,560 in household jobs, and 23,243 were in other employment. Total placements in Kingston were 75. Of these 29 were in manufacturing plants, 15 in household service, and 31 in other jobs. Jobs filled this month totaled 13 per cent higher than in November, largely because of seasonal expansion in retail trade. Accelerated defense employment also contributed to the gain.

Survivors Relate Story of Lights On Dying Mates

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 22 (AP)—With their ship torpedoed and sunk within sight of land, three survivors of the coastwise steamer City of Atlanta recalled today how they spent seven hours in the cold sea off North Carolina awaiting rescue and watching shipmates lose their grip from wreckage and disappear.

The three, all from Savannah, Ga., were the only known survivors of a crew listed at 47 by the navy. John York of Clayton, Ga., second assistant engineer, died shortly after being taken aboard the Tex. Seatrail, a rescue ship.

Two survivors, Robert Fennell, Jr., oiler, and George B. Tavelle, second mate, are in a hospital here, while Earl Dowdy, uninjured, left for Savannah last night.

Twenty-one survivors of the 3,700-ton Latvian cargo ship Ciltvaira, also torpedoed without warning off the North Carolina coast, were brought to Charleston, S. C. Two of the crew of 32 were killed by the explosion. Nine other survivors were taken to another port.

The 5,269-ton City of Atlanta and the Ciltvaira were beset by enemy submarines early Monday morning.

The City of Atlanta survivors said the U-boat, not more than 50 feet away, played its searchlight on the men gasping and choking in the sea until the City of Atlanta's nose went up and it slid stern first, out of sight.

It was that behavior on the part of the submarine commander that drew from the men their last screaming curses.

"One thing stands out in my mind," Tavelle said. "While the searchlight was playing over the men in the water as they hunted for pieces of wreckage, I heard them yelling: 'I'd like to wring your neck, you Heineies,' and 'I wish we could get our hands on you.'"

Miss Scott, 24, has been in jail for more than a month. Her companion, identified by Assistant County Solicitor Glenn C. Mincer as Margaret Schuyler Sternberg of San Francisco, was arrested today. They were charged in an information with conspiring to force a wealthy Miami Beach winter resident to employ Miss Scott as her secretary and companion.

Rail Rates May Go Up

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—The nation's railroads held official authority today to raise passenger fares 10 per cent to meet increased wages and operating costs. The Interstate Commerce Commission, acting upon urgent pleas of the carriers, granted the increase which it is estimated would yield an extra $45,000,000 on the basis of last year's revenues. The fares will go up 10 days after the companies file new tariffs with the ICC and they probably will become effective between February 1 and February 4.

OUR FOOD-AND NUTRITION

Fuel for heat and energy of the body is derived from the oxidation or "burning" of the three classes of food substances—proteins, fats and carbohydrates. Fats are the most concentrated form of energy. The "fuel" requirement of the body is influenced by many factors, including size of the person, climate and activity. The daily diet should include sufficient "fuel foods" to meet the requirement of the individual. Meat supplies heat and energy through both its protein and its fat.

For a meal in a hurry, a ham slice is a fine main dish. It is good for a company meal, as well as a treat for the family. For economy, choose ham butt slices. The butt end of the ham is a thrifty buy. It may be cut into two pieces. The part containing the aitch bone may be used for cooking with vegetables. The other part can be sliced in single or double slices.

Serve for Any Meal
The double or "butterfly" slice is pictured here. It is made by cutting a thick, double slice, then opening it out like pages of a book. Then it may be cooked like center ham slice. Because of its appetizing flavor, it fits well into any menu. It is good for any meal of the day. Thin slices, quickly broiled, are tempting breakfast fare. A good thick slice is hearty enough for any dinner.

Pan-broiled Ham Slice
Have the ham slice cut from one-half to one inch thick. Slice in each side in a heavy skillet, then reduce the heat and cook slowly until done, about twenty to thirty minutes. Pour off the excess fat as it accumulates in the pan. Turn the slice frequently so that it will be cooked evenly. Serve at once on a hot platter.

A Good Hurry-up Meal

Broiled Ham
Have ham slice cut one-half inch thick. Butterfly ham slice is a good choice. Slash the fat edge. Place the ham in the center of the broiler rack and arrange so that the top of the ham is about three inches from the source of heat. Brown on one side, turn and brown second side. It will take about five to seven minutes to a side to broil a slice one-half inch thick. A slice one inch thick will require twenty to thirty minutes.

Broiled Ham with Apricot Glaze
Ham slice, 1 inch thick
No. 2 can apricots
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

The butt end of ham is an economical buy. It may be cut into two pieces. The part containing the aitch bone may be used for cooking with vegetables, and the other part which is boneless may be cut into either single or double slices. The butterfly ham slice pictured here is made by cutting a double slice which is then opened like the pages of a book. This ham slice was cooked by broiling at a moderately low temperature. A butterfly ham slice is an economy cut which makes a tempting and delicious main dish for any meal. Boston brown bread goes well with the flavor of broiled ham. Celery and pickled fruits make a nice accompaniment and can easily be served in place of a salad when a quick meal is desired.

1/4 teaspoon cloves
Turn the regulator to broil. Slash the fat edge of the ham. Place meat on broiler rack, allowing three inches between the top of the meat and source of heat. If the distance must be less, reduce the heat so that the ham will broil at a moderate temperature. Sprinkle with spices and cook until browned, basting occasionally with apricot juice. When brown, turn. Sprinkle the other side with the remaining spices and continue cooking, basting occasionally with the remaining juice. When second side is done, place the apricot halves on top and heat long enough to brown the fruit slightly.

Allied Southern Defense Triangle

AP Feature Service

A TRIO of bases, two Dutch and one British, pack the land-sea-and-air wall with which the United Nations hope to halt finally Japan's drive into the South Pacific. Separated by hundreds of air miles, Soerabaja, Amboina and Darwin form a strategic triangle guarding the vital southern shipping lane between the United States and the Antipodes. Darwin probably will be the base for American striking power in Pacific war theatre.

DISTANCES ARE SHORT along the triangle in terms of long-range bombers. Here are some of the mileages: Darwin-Amboina, 630; Darwin-Soerabaja, 1,290; Soerabaja-Amboina, 1,100; Soerabaja-Singapore, 850; Darwin-Singapore, 2,100.

SKY POWER is symbolized by these Hudson bombers, flying over a tidal estuary in north Australia. Almost every ranch has landing fields, two-way radios.

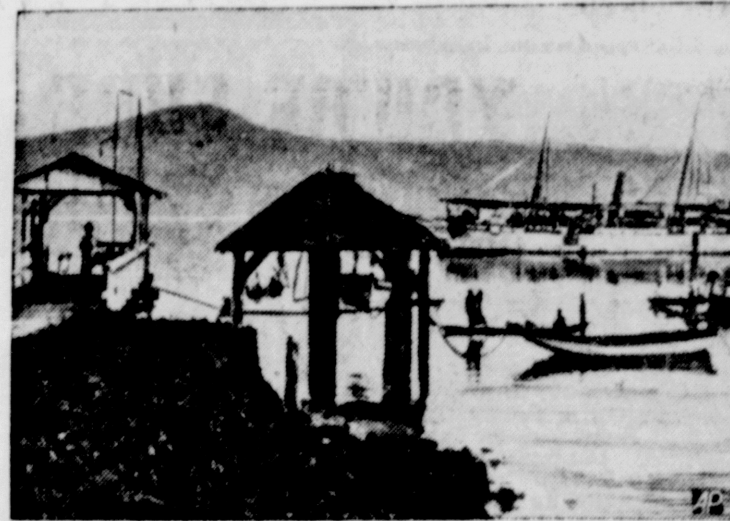

FIFTH COLUMN: Jap pearl fishermen congregated along north Australia coast until war began.

AUSSIES STRONGHOLD: Darwin, viewed from the air before recent giant expansion of harbor, land defense facilities. City has grown from hundreds to 5,000 in few years.

NO. 1 DUTCH BASE is Soerabaja, at eastern tip of Java. Here is based the Dutch fleet but the harbor is too shallow for big British, U. S. battleships. This is scene in the city's business section. Concealed airdrome, big guns are ready for warfare.

NO. 2 DUTCH BASE is Amboina. A fine protected harbor and the terrain make it a tough island for attackers to take. It is the first point of the triangle subjected to severe Jap attack will be won only at a steep price.

Aqueduct Engineers Give Report at Meeting

New York, Jan. 21 (Special)—A paper by Fred W. Stiefel of Kerhonkson, chief engineer of Samuel R. Rosoff, Ltd., was presented today at the 89th annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which opened at the Engineering Societies Building in New York. Mr. Stiefel's paper, entitled "Delaware River Aqueduct Tunnel Construction under the Shawangunk Range," was discussed by Philip S. Miller of Kerhonkson, resident engineer of the Rosoff concern. Nearly 2,000 civil engineers, high-ranking army and navy officers, defense agency executives and others are attending the meeting, which is devoted to discussion of war measures suggested for adoption by engineers in administrative posts, problems in the building of army cantonments, and related subjects. The 70th annual award of the Norman Medal for an outstanding contribution to the profession was made today to Dr. John A. Van Den Brook, professor of Engineering Mechanics at the University of Michigan, for his paper on "Theory of Limit Design."

The machine tool industry of Canada has expanded 600 percent compared with the pre-war period, the Department of Commerce says.

Young America and the War

BUSINESS AS USUAL is essential for children in wartime.

(With the war touching every household in America, child psychologists have turned their attention to the problem of adjusting the younger generation to the new situation. One phase of the study is discussed here, the first of six weekly articles.)

Keep them busy.

That's the best prescription for the guidance of children in wartime, leading child psychologists now agree.

American parents, apprehensive as to the effect of the present war psychology on their children, may take comfort in the experience of English fathers and mothers, who have found that little Johnny and Mary often weather the war alarms more calmly than their parents.

"Children can stand a lot more than you might think," says Mrs. Sidonie M. Gruenberg, director of the Child Study Association of America, now planning a series of war instruction classes for parents. "Too much protection is almost worse than too little. The best plan is to encourage children to continue the daily pattern of their lives with as little change as possible. Don't alarm them with constant discussion of the war and its dangers. But on the other hand don't exclude them from any discussion of the war. Teach them to take it in their stride."

Mrs. Gruenberg believes that the attitude of children toward war and its dangers depends entirely on the parents. If father and mother remain calm in the midst of rumors and alarms, the children will feel a sense of security. If, however, parents become hysterical, the children are likely to follow suit.

Older children may be given certain responsibilities—things to do in case of an air raid. Younger children may be taught to play war games, so that the real thing, if and when it comes, will not be a shock.

Judge Rules Wife Gets No Alimony On 'Family' Claim

Justice Francis Bergan at Albany Wednesday held that a wife is not entitled to alimony because of a mere disagreement over relatives or family policies but allowed Mrs. Rita R. McAuliffe of Kingston $100 counsel fees in her action for separation from her husband, Joseph P. McAuliffe, local funeral director. The court refused to allow Mrs. McAuliffe alimony until a full inquiry is made on trial of her action. He said until it is indicated on trial that separate support is justified he could not grant alimony.

"Judicial intervention certainly does not follow every marital conflict," the court ruled. "If it did, it would constitute a constant coercive threat. The rule of alimony is liberal in this state but it does not allow separate support because of mere disagreements concerning relatives, or family policy. The plaintiff is still living at the home mutually owned with defendant and is supported by him," concluded Justice Bergan.

Mrs. McAuliffe is suing her husband for separation. She charges her husband refused to take her to places of amusement, to allow her relatives to visit her, or to permit her to do her own shopping for groceries.

Though he refused her alimony pending disposition of the case he granted her $100 counsel fees.

Granted Divorce

Mrs. Harriet A. Verdile of Albany was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Nicholas Verdile of Rochester by Justice L. M. Layden, who also gave custody of a minor child to the plaintiff and awarded $3 a week for her support. The Verdules were married February 12, 1932 at Saugerties.

Fire Bomb Movie At Rotary Dinner

Picture on Methods of Fighting Bombs Shown

A movie, graphically describing methods of extinguishing incendiary bombs, was shown at the Rotary luncheon-meeting held Wednesday. The film was secured through Fire Chief Murphy and Alfred F. Doyle supplied the projector.

In introducing the picture, the fire chief pointed out that the purpose of the moving picture was to impress on citizens that while fire bombs were to be respected they were not to be feared to the extent of becoming panicky, and that intelligent fire fighting would bring results.

Illustrations of the use of water and sand in fighting the bombs and the order in which they should be used together with the effectiveness of the proper and timely methods were among the highlights of the picture.

A public showing of the movie will be given in the near future, when it is expected that a record attendance of local residents will be present.

When the Spaniards invaded South America, they found many varieties of potatoes under cultivation.

Give Attention to Flowers, Bird Life

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 22—Despite the war, folks will still be interested in care of their home grounds, in growing flowers, and in having an attractive lawn. With this in mind, the floriculture department at Cornell has planned a varied program, to meet the home owner's needs, at Cornell's Farm and Home Week, February 9 to 14. Problems connected with lawns, trees, shrubs, soil preparation and testing, bulbs, disease control, potted plants, fruit and nut trees, unusual flowers, and flower arrangement, will all receive attention. Nurserymen will meet on February 13 and 14 to discuss new developments in growing plants, landscape design for small properties, and plant materials for the several regions of New York state.

The conference is the first in several years. Visitors interested in bird life will have an opportunity to learn about winter birds and their foods, wild birds and their songs, birds of the Eskimo country, the home life of birds, and about several bird artists, including the famed Louis Agassiz Fuertes. Ornithologists at Cornell have prepared daily lectures for visitors, many of them illustrated. Sound recordings of bird songs may also be heard.

All told, some 600 events have been arranged for Farm and Home Week guests this year, intended to meet all interests of farm and home life, says Prof. L. D. Kelsey, in general charge of the week's activities.

Then, his back turned to the youth, the salesman heard him say "stick 'em up and don't move." He turned and looked into the muzzle of a rifle the boy had taken from a display.

Frank walked toward him. The boy slowly pulled the trigger. Nothing happened. He put down the gun and ran out.

The salesman looked at the rifle. In the firing chamber was a cartridge. But the safety catch was on.

Backfire
Miami, Fla. — Policemen hurled hand grenades, fired tear gas shells, riot and machine guns in practice here, but decided there would be no more shooting of parachute flares.

They stuffed the parachute flare into the barrel that fires it, and let it go.
A few minutes later they were firemen instead of policemen. It took hours of beating and back-firing to put out the grass blaze.

It's No Secret
Spokane, Wash. — Judge R. M. Webster, presiding over a haircut rate case hearing, interrupted after a witness testified it takes more time to cut a head of hair in a suburban shop than in one downtown.

"The court," Judge Webster observed "is rather inclined to take judicial notice that there is more conversation to a haircut in a neighborhood shop."

Big Milking Job
Montrose, Colo. — Farmer Roy Guild was surprised—pleasantly to find a live cow buried under one of his hay stacks.
Bossy had been missing a month.
He decided she had wandered into a tunnel-like opening in the stack and been trapped in a slide. It was warm inside and there was plenty to eat.

Just Ignorant
Kansas City — Howard Ellfeldt printed the combination on a card and left it hanging on the knob after burglars twice tore up his safe getting inside.

Arriving at the store yesterday he found the safe smashed again. "They either need the practice," said Ellfeldt, "prefer to do it the hard way or don't have brains enough to read."

Redman Sails to the Sunset
Kansas City — Chief Beaver Moon of the Yakima Indian tribe is on the warpath.
The 23-year-old Oregon Indian interrupted a theological course at Sterling, Kas., College to join the navy.

He enlisted as William W. Spencer, which is what Uncle Sam calls him.

LEAVING FOOD ON ONE'S PLATE IS NO COMPLIMENT TO HOSTESS

Remarks made to me in the letters from the younger generation have often pleased me by granting me a young point of view. But a letter received today, which disagrees with my opinion that one should not deliberately leave food on one's plate, is the first to suggest that I am too young to have learned my table manners until after the World War and Mr. Hoover's "No Waste" campaign were the orders of the day! "Otherwise," this letter continues, "you would have been taught that leaving a little food on the plate, was the correct way to show your hostess that you had had a sufficiency."

I have also had a very charming letter from a lady who tells me that her mother, born in 1835, and two very old relatives always left a piece for manners, on their plates. To this I can answer only that American customs which necessarily have come down to us from all of the countries of the world are utterly beyond count. And the fact that it happens not to have been a practice that I remember is not important. In any case, I do not think the idea is a good one. I agree of course that it is never proper to wipe up one's plate with bread as if the dog had licked it. But in my opinion it is certainly better manners to eat all of our helping—showing your hostess your appreciation of it—than to leave part of it in distaste.

I can't believe that it could be pleasing to any hostess who has (or herself) a famous cook, to see left on the plates of her guests. Imagine for example, the feelings of one of the renowned gourmets in New Orleans, were a guest not to eat the very last delectable morsel!

Also I think it is vitally important that a child be taught that food left in the dish can be used. Food left on one's plate goes into the waste! In other words, to waste!

When Mother is Bride's Only Parent

Dear Mrs. Post: (a) When a bride's father is dead, is it proper for her mother to give her away? (b) Should the mother walk to the altar the same as the father would, or should she meet the daughter at the front of the church? Answer: (a) Yes. (b) Not usually in church. She bows her head from where she stands to indicate "I do." In a house (perhaps even in a very small church) she may go forward and place her daughter's hand in that of the bridegroom. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men) that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Albany Plans Use Of Aerial Bombs To Signal Blackout

Albany, which will hold a second blackout within the next three weeks, plans to experiment with huge aerial bombs as a means of signaling the blackout. It is announced that powerful aerial bombs will signal a plane raid trial and plans are being made for a blackout to last two or more hours to test the ability of citizens to live a normal existence under blackout conditions.

In Kingston it has been repeatedly stated that every citizen should make some provision for screening some room so that at least a dim light may be burned during a blackout. Extinguishing all lights for a short blackout will not create a serious inconvenience but should an actual raid take place making necessary several hours of darkness, some provision should be made for screening a room for use during the blackout.

The bomb warnings which would supplement the air raid horns and whistles have been under trial for a time and will be used this evening in Oneonta for the first time during a trial blackout. The bombs are similar to those used at the World's Fair.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

The Kingston District committee met for its first meeting of 1942 last evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 o'clock. Dr. A. S. Cole, the new chairman, announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen: Organization committee, Victor Owens; advancement committee, Ward Tongue; finance committee, George B. Matthews; health and safety committee, Harry Edinger; camping committee, Walter T. Tremper; leadership and training committee, Theron Culver.

The plans for each of these committees were talked over and objectives set for the district for the coming year. The members of the district expressed their appreciation by having placed in the minutes an expression of approval of their president, Dr. H. W. Keator and Executive R. G. Burns for the fine work accomplished in paying off the council's debt of $5,526 during the past three years. Brief reports from the troops represented showed that they were stepping up their programs to fit into the changing times and were ready for service to their country on short notice.

The annual church service for the troops of the district will be held Sunday evening, February 8 and two troops asked to be the host to this affair, No. 7 and No. 11. Plans were also discussed regarding the district rally, which will come during March. This was referred to the commissioner's staff to work out with the scoutmasters.

Muskies are used for food by many persons. In some city markets the meat is sold as marsh rabbit.

COSSACKS DISMOUNT TO STAGE ATTACK

Leaving their mounts to deploy themselves on foot, Cossack troops, according to Russian sources, advance on the enemy for a counter-offensive somewhere on the Moscow front. The fall of Mozhaisk, anchor point of the German line 57 miles west of Moscow, was hailed by the Reds as an important strategic gain in their winter campaign which was forcing the Germans back toward Smolensk.

County Allotment In Rubber Tires And Tubes Given

County Tire Rationing Administrator Edgar T. Shults on Wednesday received notice that the state rationing bureau had allotted a total of 189 tires and 280 tubes for distribution in Ulster county during February. These are divided, 51 passenger cars and 43 passenger tubes; 138 truck and bus tires and 237 truck and bus tubes.

Mr. Shults has allotted the February total as between the city and county rationing boards as follows:

City quota: Passenger cars, 16 tires, 13 tubes; trucks and buses, 44 tires, 76 tubes.

County outside the city: Passenger cars, 35 tires, 30 tubes; trucks and buses, 94 tires, 161 tubes.

Ulster county's allotment for February is about 35 per cent less than the total for the present month, the January total being 290 tires of all kinds.

A move to sink a four-inch bore to tap a hot mineral spring and provide a central heating plant for the town hall of Rotorua, New Zealand, really turned on the hot water. Two hundred feet down water of 230 degree temperatures was released with a force that created an artificial geyser which spouted approximately 70 feet into the air.

It's the way a man sticks to a thing that marks him as a success or a failure. Many a man has won out at the eleventh hour just because he wouldn't let go. Don't be a quitter.

Landlady (in hall talking to a gal)—I thought I saw you taking a gentleman up to your apartment last night, Miss Smythe.

Miss Smythe—Yeah, that's what I thought!

Getting the baby to sleep is hardest when its about 18 years old.

First Porter—You sure got a big mouth!

Second Porter—Well, I wouldn't exactly call that a keyhole in your face.

She was one of those nagging wives, but was aware of her fault. One day she attended a lecture on "A Smiling Face Wins Through."

The lecture impressed her so much that she decided to try and experiment. Consequently, when her husband came down to breakfast next morning he was met by a beaming smile.

For a moment he stood dumbfounded in the doorway, then he collapsed into an armchair.

"Gracious," he said weakly, "she's got lockjaw!"

During the World War one of the great steamships that was used as a transport for soldiers was on her way across when a torpedo boat was sighted. In anticipation of the danger they were in, all on board were lined up on the deck.

There was a deathly hush for an instant, when suddenly from down the line a Negro's voice rang out: "Is dar ennybody heah dat wants to buy a gold watch and chain?"

Horrible thought: Not being able to recognize some "blonds" soon if it becomes impossible to procure peroxide.

Often one of the best ways to help others is to leave them alone.

Home on a Winter Night. The supper work is done. The lamp now glows. But dimly on the new year's almanac.

John Borden reads. The wintry winds and snows. Drive hard against the pane while down his back.

Cold shivers run. John stirs the fire now. Then wraps a shawl around his spare, old wife.

"Not long before I sharpen up the plow!" He says—his thoughts turn toward the springtime life.

Jane Borden knits upon a baby boot. (Her youngest son expects an heir in May!)

"How dear he'll be—and most as smart and cute. As Junior was. . . . How soon they go away. . . ."

She sighs and dreams again of each small head. She kissed so long ago and tucked in bed.

Correct this sentence: "Then I got well," said the man. "And kept all my good resolutions."

Angry visitor—See here. What do you mean by inserting the derisive expression "Applesauce" in parentheses in my speech?

Newspaper Reporter—Applesauce? Great Scott, man, I wrote "Applesauce."

When a woman goes on a drastic diet, she has one of both of two objectives in mind—to retain her girlish figure, or her boyish husband.

A negro called at the hospital and said: Rastus—I called to see how mah fren' Joe Brown was getting along.

Nurse—Why, he's getting along fine; he's convalescing now.

Rastus—Well, I'll just sit down and wait 'till he's through.

The economic situation may be upside down but the $ looks the same way either way one turns it.

HOW TO LIVE FOR LESS

9. Buying Food

OP Feature Service

Here are a few good rules when shopping for food on a limited budget: Read the labels; they indicate the volume, quantity, and quality for comparison with other brands and other size packings. Check the weights on home scales and be sure to ask for and get adjustments every time you are short-weighted. Watch for quantity offerings on items like soap, sugar, potatoes, etc. U. S. advises buying graded canned foods (A, B and C). All are perfectly good food; Grade C is entirely satisfactory in soups, sauces, stews. Evaporated or dried milk can be used in cooking in place of bottled fresh milk. Oleomargarine can be used as a butter substitute.

DO TIME FOR LOVE

Chapter 19

Date With Dorcas

It was while Lavinia was drinking her second cup of coffee that she decided to telephone her Aunt Dorcas, and ask if she could come up to Portland for the day. A fog-bound day at a shore resort was a depressing thing; besides, she felt a strong urge to get away, to be where there would be no possible chance of running into Rod, or having people around her who expected her to be gay. She wanted no bridge, no dancing, and there would be no pleasure in spending any time out of doors with a book. Spending the day shut up in the Inn would be even worse.

She left the dining room and went into a public telephone booth in the foyer. There she put in a call to Portland, grateful for the fact that Professor Plunkett had a phone in his house. Her Aunt Dorcas was on the wire in a remarkably short time.

"Hello, Aunt Dorcas," said Lavinia, warming to the sound of her aunt's voice. "Would you like to have your niece for the day?"

"I certainly would!" Miss Dorcas responded with enthusiasm. "I'm fed up with the Plunketts."

"Be careful, Aunt Dorcas—they'll hear you!"

"No danger. Mrs. Plunkett is out marketing, and the Professor is out in the woodshed dissecting."

"He's out doing what," said Aunt Dorcas. "I've been helping him. I haven't got nothing on me, Lavinia. For a week I've practically lived in that whale's belly. Why this sudden desire to spend the day with me?"

"Oh, it's foggy, and disagreeable down here," Lavinia said. "And I have a sort of hankering for city life. I thought we could lunch together at some bright and cheerful place, and—well, sort of compare notes."

"What about?"

"Whales—and summer resorts."

"You won't miss that train?"

"No, Aunt Dorcas."

And Lavinia didn't miss it. She dressed herself in a smart sports outfit, stepped in the hotel bus and was taken to the depot. She kept her eyes straight ahead when the bus passed a spot from where Roderick Elliott's cottage could be seen. She didn't want to see it. Not ever. Not after the fantastic manner in which Rod had acted the night before.

If Rod thought he could take her in his arms, kiss her, then release her abruptly, tell her to "forget it"—and get away with it, he was badly mistaken. Only she was puzzled. In fact the more she thought about it the more rapidly her hurt and humiliation gave way to curiosity. "I suppose Aunt Dorcas will pump me for every detail," she thought as the train carried her toward Portland, "and I'll probably be just idiot enough to tell her everything."

However, Miss Dorcas didn't mention the subject of men for some little time after meeting her niece. She was at the Portland depot, and gave Lavinia an affectionate hug.

"Tan is becoming to you," she said. "Now, let's go over to the Yankee Grill. The food's fine there, and we can sit in a booth where we're more or less isolated."

"How goes the whale?" Lavinia asked.

"Don't mention whales to me," said Miss Dorcas. "Professor Plunkett has made me practically live with the one he's got."

"Where did he get it?"

"It was washed up on shore during a storm. He had it embalmed or something, and has been studying all its innermost secrets. He's trying to connect its bone structure with that of the dinosaur, and thinks it can be of help."

"Well, are you being a help?"

"Oh, yes. I've made notes with one hand while holding my nose with the other. I'm afraid the embalming wasn't a complete success."

Lavinia laughed. "Suppose we change the subject, now that lunch is in the offing."

Like A Book

IT was when they were lunching in a booth that Miss Dorcas finally brought the conversation around to Lavinia and the men at Harbor Head.

"I'm not easily fooled," she said, "and something tells me that one of those men has more than aroused your interest. Is it the one you referred to with such elaborate casualness?"

"You mean Rod?" said Lavinia before she thought.

"So that's his name!"

"Yes, Aunt Dorcas. Roderick Elliott."

"Elliott is a nice name. I used to know some Elliotts in England."

"He says he's from England."

"Why do you put it that way? You sound as though you doubted him."

"As a matter of fact I am beginning to doubt him."

"A statement like that, Lavinia, needs explaining."

And Lavinia explained—just as she knew she would. Forgetting her food, leaning against the table, talking slowly and tensely, she told her aunt how she'd met Rod, about the good times they'd had together, and ended with what had taken place the night before.

"Well," said Aunt Dorcas. "You have stepped into a romance. It sounds like a book."

"Do you suppose he is mixed up with that Canadian internment camp, Aunt Dorcas? I see no other reason for his acting so mysteriously."

"He may be a secret service man representing the British."

"Then what's he doing in Harbor Head?"

"Maybe he's there to find out why and how prisoners are escaping from Canada."

"Then why doesn't he tell me so?"

"Men in the secret service, my dear girl, don't go around blabbing to every pretty girl who comes along."

Aunt Dorcas took Lavinia's hand between both of hers. "Do something for me, Lavinia, will you?"

"What is it, Aunt Dorcas?" Lavinia asked. "I'm getting a bit skeptical about doing things for people."

"When you get back to Harbor Head, go to Rod and ask him straight to his face why he acted so strangely after he had kissed you?" said Aunt Dorcas.

"Oh, Aunt Dorcas—I couldn't!"

"Why not?"

"Why it would be too humiliating—too utterly brazen."

"Then you'd rather go on eating your heart out than to be a little brazen." Aunt Dorcas sat up straight, with a soft expression in her brown eyes. "If I'd been a bit more brazen, my dear, I'd not be a spinster now."

"You really loved a man then," said Lavinia, wondering.

"What's so odd about that?" Aunt Dorcas snapped. "Please remember that I was a woman before I was an explorer!"

"What happened to the man?"

"He married the other girl—and has a flock of children. But let's forget him and his large family. Let's concentrate on you."

Aunt Dorcas thought for a moment or two. "Even if you don't really love this Rod person, you'll be miserable as long as you live, if you don't face him and get matters cleaned up once and for all."

Lavinia felt better. "Aunt Dorcas," she said, "you're better than seven tonics."

"Nonsense!" said Aunt Dorcas. But she was pleased. That was easy to see.

Missing

ALL the way back to Harbor Head from Portland late that afternoon, Lavinia pondered her aunt's advice. One moment she was saying: "I will go to Rod and have a showdown." And the next moment she was saying: "I won't—I can't. It will be too utterly absurd." But by the time she had reached the end of her train trip she had definitely made up her mind.

She didn't even go to the Inn, but had the bus driver let her out at the spot from where Rod's cottage was visible. And the moment the bus had disappeared she made her way over the rocks, and down the little crooked path. A fascinating stillness lay over everything. Even the seagulls were quiet, resting upon the blackened pier supports and upon the pier itself.

She paused for a moment or two to watch them. And then she began to look about for Rod, thinking perhaps he might be out in the open. But there was no sign of him, so she went on to the cottage.

That too was wrapped in stillness, but a stillness that wasn't fascinating. There was something foreboding about it. It was like looking at a cottage from which someone very dear has been carried away. She stood at the foot of the steps leading to the porch and listened. No sound. No light in the windows.

"Rod!" she called softly. And then she called again, this time not so softly.

No answer.

She called again, and when there was still no reply, she went up onto the porch and knocked at the front door. No answer but a disturbing sort of echo. She tried the door. It was locked. She peered in at the windows, only to see the inside of the cottage dimly wrapped in shadows.

Perhaps Rod was watching the sunset from the high rock from which they had watched it together. She left the porch and went down the steps. But before climbing to the high rock she went to see if the boat was in its usual place. It was gone.

At this discovery she felt a sinking sensation. It was as though her heart had dropped to her shoes.

Shading her eyes, she looked off toward the little island, thinking perhaps Rod had gone out there. Of course she couldn't really tell, even if he was out there—but she thought there might be a glimpse of the boat, either making his way to the island or back to the mainland.

Presently, disturbed, oddly unhappy, she moved on to the high rock. But Rod was not there.

National Groups Seek Support at American Capital

Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne of Austria-Hungary, who now is in the United States, has been credited with desiring leadership of a movement to restore free government to a still unrecognized "confederation of Danubian states," but has received no official support.

A "Free Rumania" movement, headed by Charles Davila, former Rumanian minister to Washington, also is seeking the American government's support and assistance.

The former King Carol, now a refugee in Mexico, has announced that he plans to come to the United States to organize a "Free Rumania" committee, but so far as can be learned he has not applied yet for an American visa.

Count Storza, onetime foreign minister of Italy and an outspoken opponent of Fascism, now in this country, has consulted with State Department officials several times concerning launching on a "Free Italy" committee.

Several "Free German" groups have discussed formation of a united organization against Nazi rule of Germany.

Among their leaders is Otto Strasser, onetime Nazi leader who split with Hitler and organized the "Black Front" against the Nazis. He is now in Canada.

Proposals for establishment of committees to work for free governments in several other conquered areas also have been discussed with American officials.

The United States recognizes the governments-in-exile of Belgium, Poland, the Netherlands, Norway, Luxembourg, Greece and Yugoslavia which themselves seek reestablishment of freedom in territory now occupied by the Axis.

The United States also continues to recognize the ministers here representing Denmark, Czechoslovakia, and Thailand, although not extending recognition to those governments.

remarked to the cashier that it was "a pity such young people" had to face such danger.

"The cashier passed the information on to a man in a nearby movie house," Harvie related, "and he in turn phoned it to someone up the coast, who signaled a sub from a deserted part of the shore. Eighteen men died because of a slip of the tongue and a valuable war cargo was lost. They caught the spies, though."

Harvie, who was 26 yesterday, returns to his Vancouver, B. C., home today after four years' absence to await a new assignment. He said that of the eight ammunition ships on which he had served in the war, two had been torpedoed by U-boats.

"I was officially dead for several days after each of those boats were blasted from under me," he continued. "On one, a 5,300-tonner, the mess room steward and myself happened to be at the ice box on the top rear deck when the tin fish struck us. We were blown into the water with a free life boat on deck near us and were the only two men saved. We were in the small boat for five days before a destroyer saved us."

Jerry Rizzo Sparks Recs to 57-43 Victory Over Pittsfield

Ace Guard Scores 18 Points in Win At City Auditorium

Kingston Turns Back Bears With Furious 24-Point Rally in Last Period; No Game Next Week

Manager John Conaty's Kingston Recreations added another feather to their caps last night at the municipal auditorium with a dazzling and sensational 57 to 43 victory over the Pittsfield Golden Bears. It was the highest point total for the Recs this season.

Heading the onslaught for the Recs was Jerry Rizzo, the Fordham Flash who collected 18 big points in one of his best exhibitions of the season. Rizzo, who had been playing a little below par the last few weeks, stepped into the limelight last night and gave the Recs the impetus needed.

It was the second straight week that the local New York State League Pro Basketball team finished with a flurry of speed in the final quarter with 24 points. Last week a heated rally in the closing sessions gave the Recs a surprising triumph over the Albany Senators.

While the victory gave the Recs a momentary release from the collar the club dropped into that position again as a result of Troy's 41 to 34 win over Glens Falls last night. Kingston did, however, pick up some important gains on the upper division outfits.

The Recs took a 21 to 14 lead in the first period of play and the good sized turnout of spectators were looking forward to another Kingston victory. Pittsfield rallied itself in the second period and made the count at the end of this quarter 35 to 33. It was that close all the way.

Shots by Kane, McKeever and Belanger found the hoop for the Bears in the second quarter and it didn't take long for the Kingston margin to be sliced down to striking distance. Pittsfield continued to bombard the local basket on long range deuces until the period closed with the visitors having a slight edge.

It was a furious period for both teams in the home stretch. Belanger poured a long one to give Pittsfield a 39 to 36 edge but Rizzo came back strong with a sizzling hook shot which gave the Recs some thing to work on.

Big Al Benson, who has been doing his share of point-getting and fine all-round defensive play, then drilled the basket from pass mid-court which had the fans yelling for more. Benson's nifty shot moved the Recs out in front by 42 to 39 and that just about wiped out all chances of the Pittsfield club.

At the start of the five minute mark Kingston was protecting a 47 to 43 lead. The Recs went on to make merry at the expense of the mystified Golden Bears. Those long range shots were missed time and time again by the visitors. Meanwhile, the Conaty-coached crew drilled in shots from all angles.

Rizzo's two baskets and Hagen Anderson's solo did the trick for Kingston until Jack McGuirk passed quickly to Rizzo under the net to make the score 53 to 43. It looked like a 60-point game for Kingston. Jim Buckley then came through with three points and finally McGuirk's charity toss made it 57 to 43.

Following the unbeatable Rizzo in the scoring ledger were Hagen Anderson and Jackie McGuirk who collected 10 each. Kane and Platt found the range for Pittsfield with 10.

The Recs will not play any home game here next Wednesday. The next game is scheduled for Wednesday, February 4, when the Troy Pros will be here in a benefit game for the "March of Dimes."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

(Wide World Sports Columnist)
New York, Jan. 22 (Wide World)

—Jack Dempsey shouldn't have much trouble with his new duties as aide de camp to Major General William Ottman of the New York State Guard....Jack has had plenty of experience as aide de light camp—which required him to keep from laughing while he said so-and-so had a good chance against Joe Louis....Baseball men are wondering if they will be able to get back to the seven game limit for night games after they boost it to 14 as a war measure....Jack Meagher, Auburn coach, figures the threatened shortage of small-college football opposition can be overcome by having traditional rivals play home-and-home games....Ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker presented the Eddie Neil Memorial Trophy to Joe Louis at the Boxing Writers' Dinner last night, but it might have been more appropriate if he had delegated the job to Quent Reynolds, who followed Eddie's footsteps from sports to war reporting.

They Get The Breaks

Warren Switzer of Jeff Davis High, Houston, and Jack Wilson of Baylor U. are rivals for the All-Texas Hard Luck Championship....Switzer broke his collar bone twice during the football season, got himself all fixed up for a fast start in basketball and then went back to the bench with a busted hand....Wilson, who was cracked up about half the time during his three years of football, also was going great guns on the hardwood this winter but appendicitis got him down last week.

Today's Guest Star

Bob Gobbie, Watertown (S.D.) Public Opinion: "If your Congressmen do nothing else, by passing the daylight saving time bill they have earned the votes of sleeping ninemurders....Because duck shooting starts at sunrise, hunters will get an extra hour's sleep next fall."

Service Dept.

One of Bob Feller's first acts after reporting to the Norfolk Naval Training Station was to join Chief Gary Bodie's basketball squad for a workout. He's not a candidate for the team....Best wishes go with Jay Simon, sports editor of the Coffeyville (Kan.) Journal, who gets his uniform at Fort Leavenworth next week; Jim Becker, the Syracuse U. thumper, who has joined the Navy; Fight managers Joe Vella (Gus Lesnevich) and Jimmy White (Aaron Seltzer), who are rejoining the army after having been discharged under the 28-year age limit....Private Pete Sessa of Fort Knox, Ky., former assistant golf pro at West Orange, N. J., says his great ambition is to caddy for Sam Snead. Pete says he would cure Snead of blowing up and would "sweet him in"....Johnny Roukema, the Paterson, N. J., speed skater, isn't finding army life a handicap to keeping in condition. Johnny is stationed at Plattsburgh, N. Y., where there is plenty of ice.

Red-Faces Roundup

Big-town fight experts aren't saying much about the results of Frank Menke's predicting contest on the Louis-Baer fight....Out of 780 contestants, the only guys who picked Louis in the first round were John Rhodes, Winchester, Va. Evening Star; Bud Cornish, Portland, Me., Press Herald; and Francis Hile, Parkersburg, W. Va., Sentinel.

Cleaning the Cuff

West Point has entered four athletes in Saturday's Metropolitan A. A. U. Indoor Track Meet—First time in 50 years cadets have noticed such an event....With subs off the coast and priorities on the airlines, sports writers are wondering how they'll cover the Dodgers' training camp at Havana. They might just go to Key West and listen....Wrestlers are being used in England to train parachute troops....The theory is that they are best fitted to teach the soldiers how to absorb heavy bumps.

Upstate Bowlers Seek New Records

Entries Pouring in for 19th Tournament

New York state bowling records are expected to fall by the wayside this year as officials of the 19th Annual Championship Tournament of the State Bowling Association reports a steady flood of entries.

With over 750 teams already tentatively scheduled to compete in Binghamton during the 32 days of the tournament between April 16 and May 17, Tournament Manager W. R. Jones has his eye on the all-time record high established in Buffalo in 1941.

Buffalo hung up a brand new figure for the rest to shoot at when the Bison City lured 970 teams into last year's competition. The highest registration before that had been at Albany in 1938 when 892 five-man squads toed the lines.

Outstanding lead-off for the Joneses was responsible for the team's three straight victories over the Standards.

The Joneses came through with an amazing 2479 triple—the highest in local annals. The winners had scores of 820, 834 and 825. The Standards, however, were far from easy competition. They had scores of 776, 813 and 811. Only Mrs. Provenzano's bowling saved the Joneses in these close matches.

By collecting that coveted 633 triple last night at the Central Rec alleys, Mrs. Provenzano eclipsed her former record of 560. Her first game of 219 was just one below her former high of 220.

Besides the great score of the Joneses lead-off, there were a few other highlights registered in last night's matches. Tillie Hobush, captain of the strong Standard outfit, came through with a 529 series with games of 185, 176 and 168. Evelyn Jones had a 510 and Doris Harvey a 500 to help defeat the Standards and to swell the Joneses total.

Joneses Lead-Off Bowler Posts Scores of 219, 202, 212; Team Wins All Three

Mrs. Evelyn Provenzano, rated as the best woman bowler in the city, just about assured herself of that coveted title last night at the Central Recreation alleys. Mrs. Provenzano, bowling in the Colonial Women's League, blasted out a brilliant and convincing 633 triple for the Joneses.

It was the first 600 or better triple rolled by a woman in the history of local bowling records. Mrs. Provenzano rapped the pins for scores of 219, 202 and 212 for her enviable record.

The outstanding lead-off for the Joneses was responsible for the team's three straight victories over the Standards.

The Joneses came through with an amazing 2479 triple—the highest in local annals. The winners had scores of 820, 834 and 825. The Standards, however, were far from easy competition. They had scores of 776, 813 and 811. Only Mrs. Provenzano's bowling saved the Joneses in these close matches.

By collecting that coveted 633 triple last night at the Central Rec alleys, Mrs. Provenzano eclipsed her former record of 560. Her first game of 219 was just one below her former high of 220.

Besides the great score of the Joneses lead-off, there were a few other highlights registered in last night's matches. Tillie Hobush, captain of the strong Standard outfit, came through with a 529 series with games of 185, 176 and 168. Evelyn Jones had a 510 and Doris Harvey a 500 to help defeat the Standards and to swell the Joneses total.

Maroons to Engage Newburgh Quintet Here Friday Night

Close Encounter Should Result at Auditorium; Game Is Scheduled for 9:15 P. M.

Newburgh Free Academy's basketball team will invade the municipal auditorium Friday night to play Kingston High School. Game time is 8:15 o'clock. A preliminary is scheduled for 7 o'clock.

Judging from the records of these two clubs to date, the final decision shouldn't be decided by any more than seven or eight points either way. Kingston will be out to regain the victory column after losing to Monticello last week.

Both quintets, however, will be fighting for one particular purpose—to get hold of third place in the Wiltwyck League standings. The two teams have won three and lost two so far this year.

Town of Ulster

Friday evening, January 23, at 7:30 o'clock at the town garage at the West Shore overpass on Albany avenue extension, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston will address the residents of the Fifth District of the town of Ulster on the subject, "Incendiary Bombs." Property Damage Action Is Started in Court

An action for property damages growing out of a collision between a bus of the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., and a truck of the Nyack Express Co., Inc., on route 208 between Walden and Montgomery on February 6, 1940, was taken up for trial in Supreme Court Wednesday afternoon.

The plaintiffs allege that a bus driven by George Krom of Tillson was damaged to the extent of $1,155.75 in a collision with the truck. At the time the roads were icy.

A jury was selected Wednesday afternoon and trial of the action was postponed until today. Judge A. J. Cook appeared for the plaintiff and William E. Lowther is attorney of record for the defendant. In the selection of the jury Andrew J. Cook, Jr. appeared for his father and N. LeVan Haver for the defendant.

Brown Gets Long Term

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—Isaac Brown, the New York insurance broker who was convicted of trying to kill a 17-year-old girl applicant for a stenographic position, today was sentenced to serve from 10 to 20 years in Sing Sing prison.

County Judge Frank H. Coyne rejected a plea for clemency and passed the maximum sentence on the charge of attempting to murder Mathilde Le Boyer, New York girl. Brown took the sentence calmly and blinked his eyes without saying anything. He was allowed a moment with his wife, a New York social worker, in the detention pen before being taken to Ossining.

gested that the advisory committee help in that work. He likewise recommended the assistance of the advisory committee in liaison work between the NYA and the defense committees in Kingston and Woodstock and for informing the public through the press of the activities and aims of the Woodstock Center. He said he would also like to see a group from the advisory committee helping with the girls activities and also with the Red Cross projects. Another group which he designated as a "tough group" might be sent frequently into the shops for constructive criticism. Mr. Wallach ended his talk by inviting the committee to come often to the center for meals or visits and to feel free to suggest or criticize.

"Dr. Bibby made a motion that the committee record a vote of appreciation and thanks to Mr. Wallach for his work during two years as director of the center."

Mr. Lindin next took the floor and voiced some criticism of the Resident Center operations which he had picked up. This was discussed and questions asked and answered by Mr. Wallach.

"Mr. Wallach said that they were cutting down the use of the bus to absolute necessity to conform with emergency rationing of tires, etc. All vehicles were used with extreme care and planning and no vehicle ran empty unless returning from a delivery of youth or goods or to and from garage at the Girls' Center."

"Dr. Bibby spoke in regard to the committee's taking a stand against the economy block in Congress that had proposed cutting off appropriations for NYA work. There was a general discussion about the long view aspect of the NYA and its functioning after the war emergency. Suggestions were made to write to the President, members of Congress, etc."

"Mr. von Schlichten gave a short address to the advisory committee. He said that everybody could be proud of the results accomplished for the Woodstock Center during Mr. Wallach's administration. There was still things to be done like cleaning up the grounds and so on but the large buildings had been completed."

"Mr. Boggs talked on health problems. He told of compulsory first aid courses, of Dr. Ingraham's lectures on hygiene etc. He asked especially for a sub-committee to help with the health problems of the non-resident students whom, he pointed out, were really Ulster county's problem, and responsibility. He specifically told of dental needs."

"The chairman asked Miss Doughty and Mrs. Bullard to look into the possibilities of a dental clinic."

"Mr. Leaycraft then told of the plans to have the shops open after hours for the local inhabitants to use under supervision of some member of the NYA staff."

Decision on Ski Meet Due Friday

Lack of Snow Threatens to Postpone Event

It was announced today by Walter Williams of Williams Lake that the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association jumping tournament scheduled for the Telemark Ski Club in Rosendale Sunday might be postponed.

The recent heavy rains have ruined what snow there was on the Telemark ski hill and that unless more snow should come before Friday or Saturday, it would be impossible to have the tournament.

Williams said that definite decision on the tournament would be made Friday morning. He said that permission might be obtained to sponsor the tournament at Bear Mountain. If not, the tournament might be re-scheduled for Williams Lake in March, he said.

Good Coffee

Making a cup of good coffee is really an art, but a simple art in which anyone can become proficient.

It is only necessary to select a brand of coffee which has proved that it can be depended on for uniformity of quality year after year, then devote the same careful attention to the brewing of that coffee as is given to the preparation of other articles of food that are brought to the table.

For coffee rich in flavor, as well as strength, one heaping tablespoon (or two level tablespoons) of coffee is recommended for each six-ounce cup (teacup size or three-fourths standard measuring cup) of water.

Mineral Losses

Avoid losses of minerals in preparing and cooking foods; refrain from scalding, parboiling and blanching. Don't soak vegetables in cold salted water to make them crisp. Don't peel or scrape vegetables. Long-cooking methods will deprive your vegetables of more minerals than by using shorter ones. The mineral losses are decreased when foods are baked, steamed or cooked in mineral waters. The greatest mineral losses occur when foods are boiled and the more water used the greater the loss; as much as 10 to 40 per cent is lost in calcium and phosphorus and 20 to 50 per cent of iron when foods are boiled.

Food Taken in Coffins

While a Swedish seaman in Oslo, Norway, watched, 400 coffins were loaded on to a German ship. One fell on the pier and broke open. It was full of beef, pork, calves heads, pigs' feet and similar meats. The Nazis were trying to hide their stolen food from the starving Norwegians.

FOOD

Potluck Parties Revive Homespun Foods

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE UP Feature Service Writer

POT-LUCK suppers featuring old fashioned, home-spun foods will give you a party that probably will get down to fundamentals—lots of good, cheerful, friendly conversation and possibly a song fest early in the evening.

They don't take a lot of planning and if your time is allocated to so many activities that you haven't much to spare, you'll find it comparatively easy to fit such a party into your schedule.

The cost, too, is surprisingly low for a table that sparkles with brilliant relishes—pickled beets, jelly-grapefruit, salad and cranberry sauce—and fancy-looking dishes to tempt jaded palates.

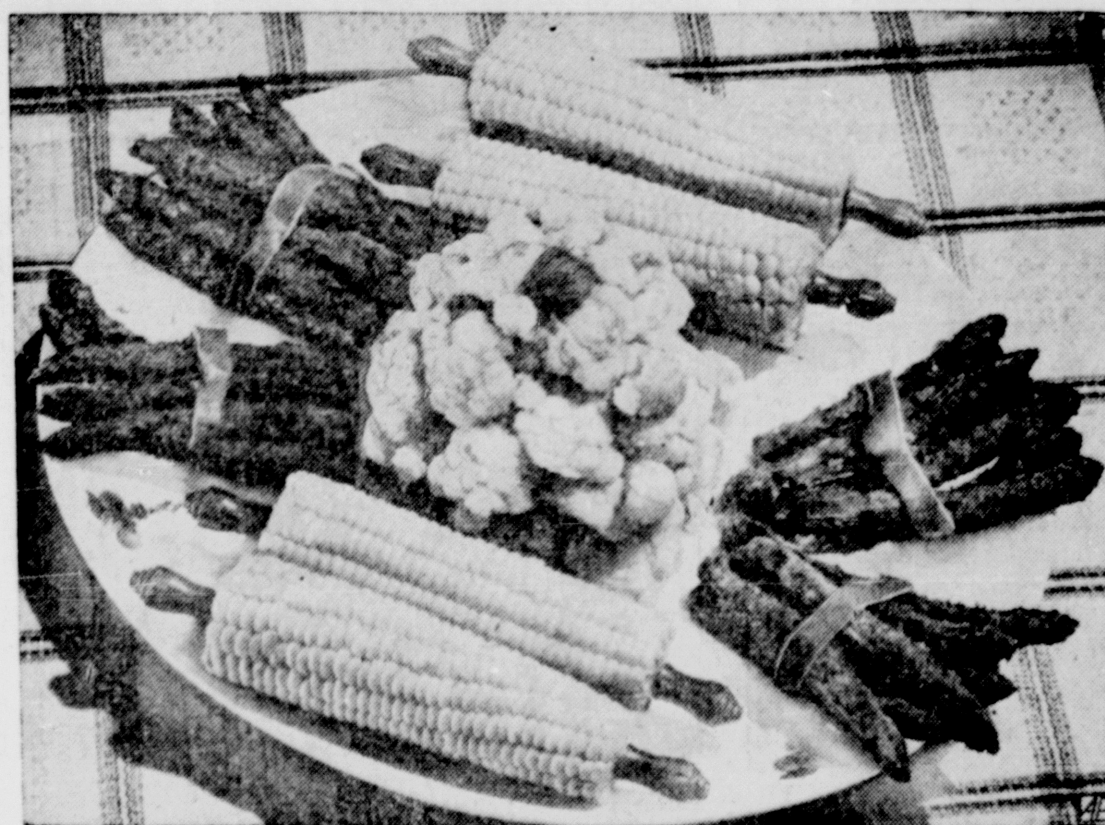

SAVORY BEEF POT PIE: If more convenient, start the day before and finish it at dinner time. Cut 3 pounds of any economy beef cut (chuck, neck, flank) into inch cubes. Sprinkle with flour, brown quickly in 1/3 cup chopped suet, bacon fat or lard. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1/3 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1 crushed bay leaf, 3 tablespoons finely chopped onions, 3 cups water. Cover tightly, simmer 2 hours.

Mix 2 cups each cooked diced

French Fried Asparagus

1 box (12 oz.) quick-frozen asparagus stalks
1/2 cup rolled crumbs
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 egg or 2 yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons milk

Separate asparagus stalks. Roll in the crumbs with salt and pepper added. Dip in egg mixed with milk and again in crumbs. Dry in deep hot fat (370) about 2 minutes or brown in small amount of fat heated in frying pan.

ACCENT ON ASPARAGUS, French fried for flavor.

carrots and small lima beans, 1/2 cup diced cooked celery, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt. Add to meat, cook slowly 10 minutes. Pour into 2 buttered baking dishes. Cover with "doughnuts" or rounds cut from rich biscuit dough. Bake 30 minutes in moderately hot oven (375). This will serve 8 or 9 guests.

FRUIT SNOW PUDDING: Soak 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin in 1/3 cup orange or pineapple juice for 10 minutes. Add 1 cup boiling water, stir until gelatin dissolves. Mix in cup sugar, 1/3 cup lemon juice, 2/3 cup orange juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Chill until thick and syrupy. Beat until frothy. Lightly fold in 4 beaten egg whites with 3 tablespoons sugar added. Beat until peaks form. Pour into mold lined with orange sections. Chill.

Unmold, cover and surround with chilled custard sauce lemon and vanilla flavored with a little toasted coconut, or sweetened whipped cream or a thick orange-pineapple sauce.

HAMBURGERS ON TOASTED RUSKS: spread with butter, horseradish and chili sauce are easy to do and inexpensive. Blend 1 pound ground beef, 1/2 pound each ground veal and pork or smoked ham, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/3 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped onions, celery and parsley or green pepper, 1 egg beaten, and 2 tablespoons cream. Shape into half-inch cakes. Brown quickly in a small amount of fat. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

To broil hamburgers, brush with melted butter, broil until brown, turn to the other sides, brush with more butter and brown. Reduce heat, cook 7 minutes.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

New Paltz, Jan. 22.—A. Bruce Bennett of New Paltz, formerly of the Normal School faculty, will be the guest speaker at the second in a series of community nights being sponsored this winter by Clintondale Grange, to be held Saturday evening, January 24, at 8 o'clock in Clintondale Grange hall.

James Terwilliger returned to active service in the army last week.

A. J. Snyder of Rosendale was elected a director of the New Paltz Huguenot Bank at their meeting last Tuesday.

Twenty students of New Paltz High School with Mrs. Rose Switzer and Mr. Lake of the faculty enjoyed a trip to New York last Saturday. After trips to department stores, art museums and other places of interest the remainder of the time was spent with the main reason of the trip, seeing "Macbeth" on the stage. They all spent a day and evening and returned home early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Thomas Roberts and Shirley Roberts visited friends in Plutarch during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Benjamin have been spending several days with relatives in Poughkeepsie.

Betty Staats recently resigned the presidency of the O. M. N. Sorority of the high school. Jean Parker automatically was moved up to the presidency and Ethel Mae Tamney was elected to fill the remaining vacancy.

The Highland Reading Circle of the Presbyterian Church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Boyce at her home on the New Paltz and Highland road.

Joseph A. Thompson, who recently purchased the Miller property about a mile and a half north of our village along Route 208 on the New Paltz-Ireland Corner road, is having a building erected which will be 30 by 60 and is being built directly in front of the present residence.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge called on their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hasbrouck Sunday.

Registration figures show that the number of students at the New Paltz Normal School has been dropped steadily in recent years because of the great number of teachers in New York state. This year there is a student body of about 400, while in 1928 there were more than 300 pupils attending the school. There will be approximately 100 seniors who will graduate from the Normal this June. The graduating class will be smaller this year than in other years when as many as 150 seniors have received their diplomas, owing to the fact that the school's quota of students was reduced several years ago from 650 to 500. Summer sessions were started 23 years ago. The same year when Principal A. Lawrence H. Vandenberg assumed leadership. There are now 51 faculty members.

At the Barn

PHIL TOFFEL

Phil Toffel, popular band leader, will open his fourth winter engagement at the Barn on Friday evening, January 23. Mr. Toffel and his orchestra will play every Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Judgment Upheld

Albany, Jan. 22 (Special)—The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has upheld a judgment entered in the Ulster county clerk's office against the Commercial Casualty Insurance Co. The action was instituted by Minnie E. Moore, beneficiary of Volney C. Moore, who died of pneumonia after an auto accident near New Paltz on September 18, 1938. The high court held that Moore's death resulted from injuries sustained in the accident.

Trapnell Awarded D. S. C. for Action In Burning Bridge

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Interference dwarfing his activities on the football field today brought to Major Thomas J. H. (Trap) Trapnell the coveted distinguished service cross for heroism in the Philippines.

Trapnell, former West Point football star, literally burned his bridges behind him on December 22 in action in La Union province. The war department announced that Trapnell, cavalry officer, remained between hostile forces and his own retreating troops and set fire to a truck on a bridge. He stayed there until the bridge was burning, then left in a scout car, picking up wounded soldiers on his way out.

"With complete disregard of his personal safety," the communique said, "Major Trapnell delayed the hostile advance and set an inspiring example to his entire regiment."

Trapnell, 39, is a native of Kers, N. Y. He was graduated from the Military Academy in 1927.
